Schools out

Students at Romulus Senior High School had plenty to celebrate last week — "no more teachers, no more books . . ." The students used soap suds and shaving cream to express their joy outside in the school parking lot. School officials, often having to contend with the shaving-creme barrage inside the school hallways, had agreed to allow the students one hour of celebration as long as the festivities were staged outdoors. Students who gladly obliged included Renee Longo (below left, from left) and Dawn Armstrong.

Accident claims life of Romulus student, 18

By RITA DERBIN
ANP Staff Writer

A Memorial Day Weekend accident claimed the life of a Romulus High School senior just two weeks before her scheduled graduation.

Lori Ann Trupino, 18, of Dodge Street, was killed 3:45 a.m. Sunday, May 29, at Camp Dearborn when the car in which she was a passenger flipped and crushed her. The car, a 1986 T-top Camaro, was driven by a 21-year-old Dearborn man who was treated and released from Huron Valley Hospital in Milford.

The car was traveling eastbound on Route 3-Walnut Circle West when the driver apparently lost control of the vehicle on a curve, according to police reports. The car struck parking blocks at the side of the road and flipped into a ravine, police said. The exact speed of the car has not determined but police surmise the car may have been speeding.

Trupino, who according to police reports, was not wearing a seatbelt, was thrown through the open roof and crushed under the overturned vehicle. The driver could not get the car off Trupino and sought help. He hailed down the police and a group of people helped move the car but when an ambulance arrived Trupino was pronounced dead by the Emergency Medical Service, according to police who were at the scene.

At that time, police officers, who say that alcohol was involved in the accident, placed the driver under arrest and advised him of his rights and a blood sample was taken. He was then registered with the Milford police pending issuance of a felony warrant. The results of the blood test have not been released yet, according to police, and an investigation is under way.

Dearborn police Sergeant John Fody of the Accident Investigation Bureau said that Trupino and the driver met at camp only a few hours before the accident. The driver was attending a family gathering and Trupino was a friend of his cousin. "He wasn't even sure of her name when questioned after the accident," said Fody.

Romulus High School students and faculty alike were saddened by the news of Trupino's death when classes resumed last Tuesday morning following the holiday. "It was real depressing around school last week at a time when kids should be celebrating and looking forward to the end of school," said principal Tom Dolan.

Trupino is survived by her parents Thomas and Sarah Trupino, a brother, Barney and a sister, Stacey.

Dolan also said that there was a large turnout from the high school at Trupino's funeral Friday. "The students seem to be handling it well. It was a very unfortunate incident, it's one of those things where we're all asking, 'Why her?'" Dolan added that he will be meeting with Trupino's parents soon to talk with them about the possibilities for a memorial of some sort for next year.

"Lori was a great kid, real popular and active in school,"

Dolan said. "She enjoyed life and had a lot of leadership capabilities and we will all miss her," Dolan concluded.

A fellow senior and classmate of Trupino, Tammy Michniewicz, added, "Whenever I saw her she always had a smile on her face."

Trupino was a cheerleader as a high school junior, a co-sponsor of the Mr. Romulus Pageant at the high school, and an active member of Students Against Drunk Driving. Trupino was also a student assistant in the counseling office and a member of the school leadership class, taught by counselor Mike Birmingham.

School officials have indicated that Trupino will be graduated posthumously with her classmates at commencement ceremonies scheduled for next Sunday at Crisler Arena in Ann Arbor.

School board vote is Monday

Voters in the Romulus Community School District will head to the polls Monday, June 13 to elect two members of the school board and decide the date of two ballot proposals.

Vying for one of two available seats on the school board are Kenneth E. Berlin, JoAnn Marviesin and Pat Patterson. The top two vote-getters will receive the four-year-term seats.

Also, voters will decide the fate of two millage proposals. Exact wording of the proposals is as follows.

• Proposition A: 1988 millage proposal. Shall the limitation on the amount of taxes which may be imposed on taxable property in Romulus Community Schools, County of Wayne, Michigan, be increased by $4.50 per $1,000 (4.5 mills) of the State Equalized Valuation of all taxable property in the school district for the year 1989, in order to provide additional funds for operating purposes?

Approval of the ballot language, school officials said, will grant a one-year 4.5-mill increase in operating funds, used for salaries, utilities and operating costs. This will not increase taxes because the board of education will reduce the long-term debt fund the same 4.5 mills.

The debt fund is a separate account used to pay bond issue commitments. It has accumulated a surplus during the past 15 years, which permits this transfer.

• Proposition B: 1989-1991 millage proposal. Shall the limitation on the amount of taxes which may be imposed on taxable property in Romulus Community Schools, County of Wayne, Michigan, be increased $2 per $1,000 (2 mills) of the State Equalized Valuation on all taxable property in the school district for a period of three years, the years 1989 through 1991, inclusive, in order to provide additional funds for operating purposes?

Approval of this ballot language, school officials, will grant a 2-mill increase beginning the year after next. This will not increase taxes because the board will be able to continue the reduction of 2 mills from the debt fund. As in the first proposal, the total tax rate of the school district will be identical to last year.

Polls are open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Council approves 1988-89 city budget

By RITA DERBIN
ANP Staff Writer

The 1988-89 city budget was approved by unanimous vote of the Romulus City Council members Monday evening. Councilman Jimmie Raspberry was absent from the meeting.

The main discussion during the public hearing focused on the employment of a mayor's helper. The council members and Mayor Beverly McAnally agreed that another secretary in the mayor's office would be the best solution to what the council members refer to as the "incredible workload" the mayor's office has been carrying.

While councilmembers agreed to hire a secretary for McAnally, they disagreed on the use of the clerk position budgeted to be split between the mayor's office and the personnel office.

Councilman Pete Bergeron wanted the clerk to be deleted from the budget because he felt the personnel office did not need another employee. "I don't think (the city) needs more than three people in personnel to serve 160 people," Bergeron commented. Councilman Ellis Pennington disagreed saying that another full-time person in personnel would be good because Personnel-Labor Relations Director Marilyn Radford was always busy with negotiations.

McAnally agreed that work could always be found for another full-time employee in personnel. "The extra person could easily be absorbed among the departments...the employee could be used as a floater," McAnally said.

Further discussion resulted in a decision to keep the clerk as budgeted until further amendments could be made at a later date.

Also discussed at the city council meeting was McAnally's suggestion that the city council approve by resolution an increase of the millage rate by .1239 for the purpose of rubbish and garbage disposal. This would establish a sanitation levy of .9103 and an overall millage rate of 10.6539.

According to Matt Rafferty, director of assessment, "The new proposed millage would still be .5461 mills less than the 1987 levy." The council passed several resolutions on the millage rate including the scheduling of a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. June 14 and a special meeting scheduled for the adoption of the 1988 millage rate at 5:30 p.m. June 21.

Teen health needs topic of school forum

By RITA DERBIN
ANP Staff Writer

Teen health needs will be the topic of discussion at a public forum at 7 p.m. tomorrow in Romulus Schools Administrative Offices, 36540 Grant Road.

At the meeting, the public will be presented an update on the study the Adolescent Health Advisory Committee has been compiling since September 1987. Included in the study will be the results of surveys about the needs of teens which were given to junior and senior high school students and their parents earlier in the year.

Based on the study, specific recommendations will be announced by the committee. Romulus residents will then be

Westland leaders take Romulus tour

Hoping Westland can cash in on expansion at Detroit Metro Airport, members of the Economic Development Corporation there are gathering all of the information available.

Members of the EDC toured airport facilities June 2 and visited with the development director of Romulus to discuss plans which are already in the works.

The Eloise property in Westland may be the one link the city has to airport expansion, according to members of the EDC. The property is currently being studied to determine the likelihood of airport-related businesses moving into that area.

A task force consisting of representatives from Wayne County, Westland and six other communities recently hired the Arthur D. Little firm of Cambridge, Mass. to conduct an analysis-feasibility study of the property.

It is hoped that the study will develop a specific plan to coordinate efforts of state, local and county agencies and of the private sector to maximize economic development and actively promote development opportunities within a six-mile radius of the airport.

"We hope to determine what we might expect to see as far as spillover from airport expansion," said Timothy Schroeder, economic development director for the city of Westland. That is why he and Scott Veldhuis planned the field trip for EDC members.

A tour of the control tower and radar rooms as well as some of the newest baggage routing systems began the trip.

Currently Detroit Metro Airport is ranked as the 14th largest airport in the United States in terms of the number of passengers. Federal Aviation Administration figures indicate that in 1987, 9.9 million planes took off and landed at Detroit Metro. That number is expected to increase to 11.5 million by 1990.

The Metro World Center, a 1,000-acre complex of hotels, airport-related industries and a regional campus of Eastern Michigan University, will be the focus of airport development in Romulus.

Canton signs drainage pact

The Western Townships Utilities Authority, which includes Canton Township, will join the Ypsilanti Community Utility Authority if members of both boards approve the move. Representatives of the two groups signed an informal agreement on Friday.

This will mean the sewage from Canton will be sent to the YUCA plant next to Willow Run Airport, alleviating flooding and other problems the township has been having with its waste water. Canton is currently using the Detroit water treatment plant.

Joining the system means the townships of Canton, Plymouth, and Northville, members of WTUA, should become part of YUCA by Jan. 1, 1993. The authority expected a greater population expansion in its area than happened, and so has more than enough capacity to take in WTUA.

Summit: Residents optimistic about peace

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

Although the Russians and Americans are not "beating their swords into plowshares" after the Moscow summit meeting, most observers believe the talks have had a positive impact on future peace.

On the Sunday following the conclusion of talks between the U.S. and Russians, the Rev. Robert Orr, pastor of the Belleville Presbyterian Church, told graduates during his sermon that "prospects for a more peaceful world look good." In turn, with a better chance for peace, there are improved opportunities for their future, he told the graduating seniors.

A deep interest in world peace prompted Orr to watch the summit proceedings very closely on television and read the accounts of the progress very carefully, he said.

"I am very hopeful. After the four summit meetings there is more openness and better communication between the two major powers than there has been in my whole lifetime," Orr said. "It is certainly historic that a whole class of weapons has been eliminated by the treaty."

If the reduction in the weapons race results in the availability of more money for domestic programs, Orr would like to see federal funds spent "on projects which improve the quality of human life." He included such social programs as education and day care plus domestic projects such as highway and bridge building and improvements.

"First, I would like the (federal) government to look to the needs of minorities. They are the first to be hurt in cutbacks and they tend to suffer the longest," Orr said.

Orr said that during the summit talks, the National Council of Churches conducted a prayer vigil in Moscow at the invitation of the patriarch of the Russian Orthodox Church. Although the vigil was not highly publicized, Orr said similar vigils have been conducted at each of the previous summit conferences.

James Coplas, American government instructor at Belleville High School, viewed the talks "in a positive manner."

"Any time there is communication between the leaders of the two most powerful nations in the world, that is an advantage," Coplas said.

Students in his classes will be discussing the impact of the summit this week, he said.

When quizzed earlier this term on their personal priorities in national issues, one class chose world peace as the most important national priority. They placed the halting of the trade deficit, a balanced budget and the absence of a tax hike as their next three priorities.

Contest aids Society

The Michigan Humane Society is sponsoring a holiday greeting card contest - in July.

The principal subjects of the artwork must include both a dog-puppy and a cat-kitten. Any artist's work selected for use in the Michigan Humane Society greeting card program will be featured on MHS holiday cards being distributed through the state. The artist's name and a brief biography will appear on the back of the card.

Cash prizes will be awarded to the first-, second- and third-place finishers. Contest deadline is July 15.

Entries must be the original artwork of the artist and must not have been published previously. Entries must be a minimum of 5 inches by 7 inches, up to a maximum of 14 by 17.

Artwork must be clearly labeled on the back with the name, address and telephone number of the artist.

Entries should be mailed or delivered to: Holiday greeting card contest, The Michigan Humane Society, attention J. Morris, 7401 Chrysler Drive, Detroit, Mich. 48211.

Citizens receive service awards

By RITA DERBIN
ANP Staff Writer

Two Romulus citizens have been given Distinguished Service Awards honoring their outstanding recreational support to the City of Romulus. The awards were handed out by the Romulus Recreation Commission as part of Michigan Week.

George Dunn of Michelle Road and Louise Buczkowski of Beverly Road were the recipients of the awards which were presented to them May 23.

To qualify for the award, a candidate must have spent at least five years in volunteer capacity in one or more recognized recreational activities in the city of Romulus. This year, the nominees were recommended by the Distinguished Service Award panel which was appointed by the Romulus Recreation Commission. Based on their merits, they were chosen by the Romulus Recreation Department as the winners.

George Dunn was nominated by Irene and Mark Scheffer of Romulus. He has been involved in athletics around the area and just retired this year after 15 years of coaching youth baseball in Romulus.

In 1973, Dunn coached his first Little League team and in 1975 he coached the first girl baseball player in the area leagues, Lori Summerfield.

Dunn has also managed many All-Star teams, including the 1977 team with Lori Summerfield playing on his team.

According to the Scheffers, "Many times he acted as counselor, taxi driver and confidante to the (children) who played for him."

Dunn was also responsible for encouraging Little League players to form both a Major League and a Big League team.

In 1985, Dunn concentrated his time on just the 16-18 year-olds. The same year his team won the District 5 Championship in Taylor and he went on to co-manage the Big League All-Stars in Grand Rapids.

After 15 years of coaching Dunn retired this year. Besides his teaching, he was also into field maintenance, according to the Scheffers. "Many times after a rain when he came home from work, he would take his son to the field to clear water from the low spots. He would sweep water, shovel dirt and sand to make the field playable," the Scheffers remembered. In his Big League career he enlisted the help of Bob Yondura to line the high school field.

Dunn's reaction to receiving the Distinguished Service Award was surprise. "I was shocked, I really wasn't expecting this but I'm honored to be honored for the work I've done," Dunn said.

George Dunn

Louise Buczkowski, who was also honored, is an 80-year-old who remains active in the community. She was nominated for the award by Marilyn Masters of the Senior Center for her years of service.

In the 1970s, Buczkowski was an active participant in establishing grants for what is now the Romulus Senior Center, and helped furnish the kitchen and large meeting rooms of the building. She also was the kitchen hostess.

Buczkowski has also made her presence known in the Senior community by being a "sunshine person." "I guess Marilyn Masters calls me that because I'm always smiling and being cheerful," Buczkowski explained.

In this capacity, Buczkowski has been making phone calls and home visits to sick community members for more than 20 years.

Buczkowski cannot get around as well any longer but still keeps in touch with the senior citizen community of Romulus and makes her presence known it's time to volunteer for activities. She is currently keeping up on her family which includes 20 grandchildren, numerous great-grandchildren and one great-grandson. She, like Dunn, was surprised when she found out about receiving the Distinguished Citizen Award. She did not even find out about the award until her name was called. "This was the first time my daughter ever pulled one over on me," Buczkowski said, explaining that the award was kept secret from her. "She never let out I was going to receive it and then they called my name after (Dunn) was honored. I was shocked and couldn't believe it. It's a great honor."

Junior clean-up

Junior High School students showed their school spirit by participating in the campus cleanup last Friday afternoon. Lynn Cleary, a counselor at the school, said the students were enthusiastic about the project. "They want to make the school look real good," Cleary said. "I think that's good because we, the faculty, want the kids to take pride in the school," she added. All classes were invited to participate in the project, on a first-come, first-serve basis during sixth hour.

Students benefit from program

By RITA DERBIN
ANP Staff Writer

Space has provided special reach for gifted children in the Romulus School District.

The SPACE (Special Program for Academic and Creative Enrichment) program was a result of a study by a citizen staff committee done at the request of Superintendent William Bedell several years ago. Bedell had the committee look into a variety of educational programs in which the school district could use appropriated state monies. The committee presented the design for a program for gifted children at the elementary level and focused on higher level skills. The children in the program were elementary students in grades three through six. Once identified, they were pulled out of regular classes once a week during the school year to attend self-contained classes specifically designed for the program. For its five-year duration the program was instructed by Jean Weiler-Reott.

When the school district was forced to eliminate the SPACE program last year due to budget cuts, administrators wanted to make use of the money that could still be received from the state for the education of gifted and talented students. At that point, Dr. Terrel LeCesne, assistant superintendent for curriculum, proposed an outline for the REACH (Reaching through Enrichment, Able Children) program and it was adopted by the school board.

REACH is a modified program for Romulus based on the model for gifted education developed by Dr. Joseph Renzulli, a nationally known professor of educational psychology from the University of Connecticut. It consists of activities and opportunities for gifted, and all students in kindergarten through 12th grade, in the schools and is operated through a grant from the State of Michigan.

REACH is coordinated by Marcia Mac Mahan, a special education resource teacher and teacher consultant for Barth Elementary and St. Aloysius School. Mac Mahan, who also has been involved in writing the state proposals for securing state funds for gifted education, is assisted by facilitators at the schools involved in REACH. The facilitators are Rosalie Berling, Merriman; Beth Cowger, Cory; Gail Blanchard, Halecreek; and Mike Rains for the junior and senior high schools. All of the facilitators applied for the REACH position because they are interested in the program and have experience working with children, according to Mac Mahan.

Mae Jackson at the high school, and Charlotte Price and Chris Consales at Hayti Elementary also participated in the REACH program this year.

At the elementary level, REACH currently takes the form of schoolwide enrichment. Five elementary schools in the district have participated in REACH this year, Halecreek, Merriman, Barth, Cory, and Hayti Elementary Schools have provided students with a variety of special activities throughout the school year through REACH. Activities have included a magic demonstration at Halecreek, a juggling performance at Merriman, a puppet demonstration at Cory, toymaking field trips to Eastern Michigan University for Barth students and a talent show at Hayti Elementary. "All the activities are planned out to give students more than just entertainment," according to Mac Mahan. "The activities get students involved. There are demonstrations and then the students are able to learn the activities themselves by hands-on training."

At the secondary level, REACH is assessing opportunities for able students. This year selected students were involved in a literary magazine and a math club. REACH also provided financial support for the Self-Awareness Day at the high school. A needs survey was also distributed at the junior and senior high schools and the results of the survey will help REACH expand activities at the secondary level.

Mac Mahan hopes that this year was just the beginning for REACH. "We hope we can continue to expand REACH but the most important thing this year was the establishment of a base for the program," Mahan said. "Now we can build on REACH in the future and provide a wide range of opportunities for students at all levels," Mac Mahan concluded.

A swinging summer for Romulus youths

By RITA DERBIN
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus youths have the opportunity to receive golf lessons this summer through the Romulus Recreation Department.

The recreation department is offering Serena Johnson's youth golf program, which is known and recognized throughout the state.

Johnson has been honored many times by the state for her involvement with youth in the instruction of golf.

The youth golf lessons are for children ages 8 through 17 and children will not need golf clubs to start. Lessons will be scheduled from 6-8 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays June 20-Aug. 10 at the recreation building located at 36515 Bibbins Road. The 15-lesson course will cost $30 and does not include any driving range or golf charge expenses.

According to a recreation department spokesperson, "The lessons will provide an all-around concept of this fascinating but frustrating game to all participants."

To register, or for further information, contact the recreation department at 942-6852.

Residents offered industrial training

By RITA DERBIN
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus residents have the opportunity to better the lives by learning industrial skills through a scholarship program Focus: HOPE is offering throughout the end of June.

Twenty-four full scholarships to the Machinist Training Institute (MTI) are available to Romulus and other downriver community residents, according to Mary Gideon, director of media relations for Focus: HOPE, which is a civil and human rights organization working to improve the quality of life in metropolitan Detroit.

Gideon also said that since 1981, MTI has placed more than 96 percent of its graduates in the workplace.

More information on the Focus: HOPE scholarships is available at 1200 Oakman Blvd. at 14th Street in Detroit or by phoning 867-2787. Equal consideration is given to all applicants without regard to race, religion, sex, nationality or creed.

The training provided by MCI is sponsored and funded by Focus: HOPE, Governor's Office for Job Training, Oakland and Wayne County Departments of Social Services, Oakland County, Downriver Community Conference, Wayne County Private Industry Corporation, City of Detroit Employment and Training Department, and Greater Pontiac Area Consortium.

given the opportunity to ask questions and express their concerns and opinions about teen health needs and ways the community is able to address those needs.

The committee received funding from the Michigan Department of Public Health in September to conduct the study. The aim of the committee is to assure that the physical, social, and psychological needs of Romulus youth are met in an effective, quality manner; to increase awareness in this city, which is very much needed," Bedell said.

Judy Cavell, health services manager at Heritage Hospital and project director of the advisory committee, hopes the public meeting will dispose of many misconceptions the public might have about a teen health center. "A lot of the parents think that a teen health center has already been decided on. That kind of misunderstanding isn't productive. We're not going behind anyone's back. We want as many parents as possible at the meeting to give their input and help us decide what's best for the community," Cavell explained. "Right now we have information from the study but we don't know whether we'll end up with more nurses, a van that will go around to the different schools, or an actual health center. That's what we need the input for."

Cavell added the committee was always looking for more members who are interested in helping Romulus youths. She also noted that only Romulus residents and people who work with Romulus youths will be able to comment and speak about idea concerning the health needs of the teens.

The list included Westland residents Victoria Anticuar, Dawn Ayers, David Berry, Candace Campbell, Cynthia Charnawskas, Lucy Chekal, Constance Conroy, Suzanne DeBrincat, Regina Dege, Lisa Marie Harrington, Cynthia Hartsaw, Kathleen Hofmeister, Anthony Jagodzinski, Mary Jordan, Margaret Kozak, Tamela Lail, Cheryl Loveday, Kristin McKenzie, Sharon Meahan, Linda Mroczka, Noreen Mroczka, Jill Notarianni, Debra Podulka, Donna Schafer, Lauren Shewman, Jacquelyn VanderRoest and Kelley Watson; Wayne residents Carrie Hall, Trudy Machovec, Julie Miller, Jeanne Quick, Gerilyn Stack and Cynthia Webster; Romulus resident Lisa Ross-Moreno; Inkster residents Karen Anderson, Karmen Anderson, Valerie Jefferson, Mark Schneider and Donna Sullivan; Belleville residents Nancy Campbell, Victoria Davis and Ronetta Elmore.

TWO AREA RESIDENTS who attend Michigan State University were recently inducted into two distinguished honor societies - but by a rude awakening. The two students, Thomas Lyndrup, of Canton, and Sabrina Johnson, of Inkster, were awakened, along with several other unsuspecting initiates, at 7 a.m. May 6. They were lured to Beaumont Tower at MSU, where friends, family and current members of the Mortar Board and Tower Guard waited to honor them in the annual induction ceremony. Johnson was initiated in the Mortar Board, a national honor society for senior college women, accepted on the basis of scholarship, leadership and service to the community. Lyndrup was inducted into the Tower Guard, an honorary selecting MSU freshmen on the basis of high academic achievement, character and willingness to serve.

THOMAS DEWITT SHAZER, of Canton, was among 499 students May 7 receiving graduate degrees at the 117th commencement ceremony at Indiana State University. Shazer received his Ps.D. in clinical psychology.

FOUR AREA WOMEN have been selected as Outstanding Young Women of America for 1987. The women: Tina Daniels, of Inkster; Terri Johnson, of Westland; Gayle Bellamy, of Belleville; and Patty Tiece, of Wayne, will all be profiled in the annual awards publication, Outstanding Young Women of America. The program seeks to recognize the achievements and abilities of women between the ages of 21 and 36. These women are being honored for their outstanding civic and professional contributions to their community.

V. DANIEL RUDOLFI III, of Canton, recently participated in the commencement ceremony at Western Michigan University, where he completed the requirements for graduation. Rudolphi, the son of Val and Linda Rudolphi, received his B.S. in printing and marketing. He also received the "Outstanding College Student" award.

ROSEMARY J. DOMAS, of Westland, was among 29 students at Western Michigan University recognized by the school department of languages and linguistics at the annual honors and awards day. Domas, in being honored, received the Mathilde Steckelberg Scholarship Award in German. It was a $500 award presented to four language majors displaying outstanding academic performance and potential.

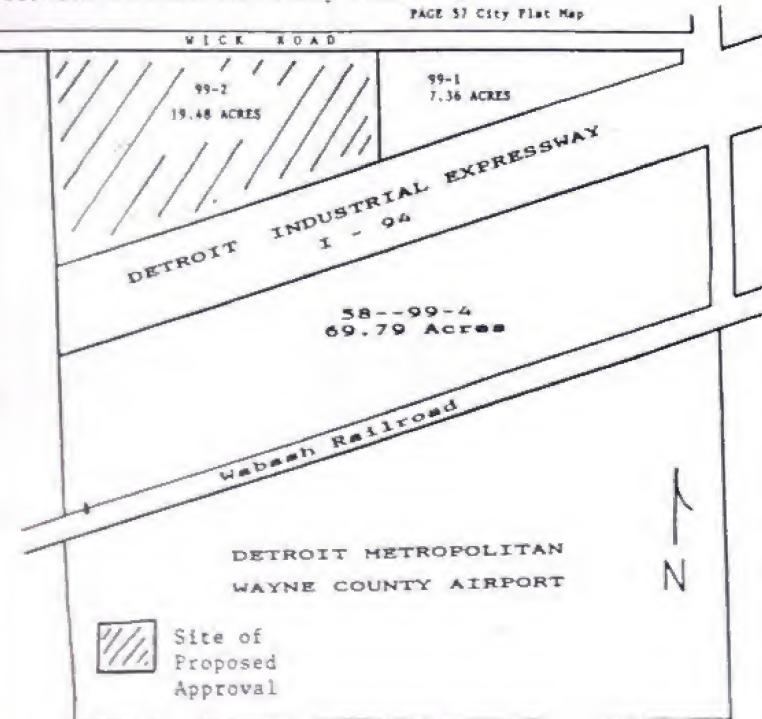

TWO AREA RESIDENTS have been named to the dean's list for the winter term at Adrian College. Students named to the list must maintain a 3.5 grade point average on a 4.0 scale. The students include Canton resident Paul Fletcher, a senior business administration/management major, and Romulus resident Eugene Nowak, a senior biology major.

JANAI STEPP, OF Canton, and Marc VanHeyningen, of Plymouth, are among 203 Alma College students named to the dean's list for outstanding academic achievement during the 1988 winter term. Students named to the list must achieve at least a 3.5 grade point average, on a 4.0 scale, while carrying a minimum of 13 credit hours. Stepp is a 1987 graduate of Plymouth-Canton High School and expects to major in international business administration. VanHeyningen is a 1987 graduate of Plymouth-Salem High School and plans to major in computer science.

SERVICEMEN FROM WESTLAND who made the news include Pvt. John Mounts, son of Gwen Clair and stepson of Roy Clair, who has completed one station unit training at the U.S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga. OSUT is a 12 week period which combines basic training and advanced individual training. In this, soldiers were taught to perform any of the duties in a rifle or mortar squad. He is a 1987 graduate of John Glenn High School. Pvt. Christopher Navalta, son of Lawrence and Bettie Navalta, has completed basic training at Fort Dix, N.J. He is a 1979 graduate of Redford High School. Spec. 4 Joseph Patreka, has been decorated with the Army Achievement Medal, in West Germany. The medal is awarded to soldiers for meritorious service, acts of courage, or other accomplishments. He is a missile crewmember with the 32nd Field Artillery and a 1979 graduate of Pioneer High School, Ann Arbor. His wife Kathy is the daughter of C.J. and Martha Hester, Westland.

Free fishing days highlight our sport

Of the many outdoor activities we enjoy in our state, fishing seems to exert the strongest appeal. Whether it's a group in a chartered boat on one of the Great Lakes or an individual casting along an inland river stream, countless residents and visitors happily spend their leisure time in pursuit of a wide variety of fish species.

As important and popular as fishing is in our state, it's not surprising that State Legislature and government agencies continually develop policies and programs to improve the sport and the industries it supports. The Department of Natural Resources is preparing for a repeat of a successful annual event that brings the enjoyment of Michigan fishing to even more people, while lawmakers have passed several measures that promise to improve the sport.

On June 11 and 12, the DNR is sponsoring the state-wide Michigan Free Fishing Days. On these two days, anyone can fish in Michigan waters without a permit. Sports groups and other organizations will be organizing special fishing events such as instruction clinics and contests. This is the perfect time for individuals and families to get a free taste of one of Michigan's favorite summer activities.

Recently approved legislation should prove to be very beneficial for Michigan fishing enthusiasts.

Under one new law, special lifetime Michigan fishing and hunting licenses will be sold between March 1988 and February 1989. Fees for the special licenses, ranging from $220 for small game or fish to $1,000 for a sportsman's license, will be dedicated to a game and fish activities trust fund.

Meanwhile, lawmakers have moved to protect a fish species that has proved almost too popular. For several years, there has been no daily limit on the number of perch that can be taken in Michigan waters, except in the Upper Peninsula, where the limit is 50. Because there is evidence that a serious depletion of perch is causing major repercussions throughout the entire sport fishery, the House recently voted to restore a 100-a-day perch limit to most waters in Michigan. The Upper Peninsula limit would not change. To help assure that sport fishing activities are conducted in a way that does not infringe on anyone's property rights, the Legislature has voted to tighten regulation on commercial bait dealers. The new state law imposes higher licensing fees on those who gather and sell live bait (minnows, wigglers and crayfish), requires clear identification on vehicles used by bait catchers and clarifies the conditions under which minnows can be taken from trout streams. This action follows complaints from waterfront home owners about the disruptive activities of some bait catchers.

Don't teach a dog with the old treats

● FACT: Your dog will perform for you without treats. If you feed your dog every time he heels or sits, you'll have a dog too fat to perform at all or you'll have to carry snacks around at all times. (And what if you run out of treats?)

● FACT: You do not need to yell at your dog to get his attention. His hearing is 20 times greater than yours. So, unless you want everyone in the neighborhood to watch you train your dog (for free), talk softly - it works every time.

● FICTION: Hitting your dog will show him who's "boss" and establish the "master". False. Abusing your dog shows you're impatient and a bully. Forget that kind of treatment - unless you don't mind being called a jerk by your fiends and neighbors.

● FACT: All dogs belong inside the house at all times, unless you and your neighbors enjoy his barking, jumping the fence and becoming nasty - not to mention fleas, flies, digging of holes and other negative behavior from your dog. A dog left in the yard should take his owners to court

dan's dogs

because that's where they'll be eventually.

● FICTION: The dog is automatically afraid of the veterinarian and because of his fear, is excused when he tries to bite him. False. Your veterinarian devotes his life to treating your dog. Train your dog to accept any examination without any negative reaction.

● FICTION: A male dog is easier to train than a female. Sorry, a female is easier. Boys will be boys. What can I say?

● FICTION: A dog should have its "puppyhood" before it can be trained. Garbage! Training should start as early as possible and as soon as the series of inoculations has been completed (approximately three months).

ROMULUS, BELLEVILLE SCHOOL ELECTIONS

Voters in the Romulus Community School District will head to the polls Monday, June 13 to decide who will occupy two seats on the local school board and the fate of two ballot proposals.

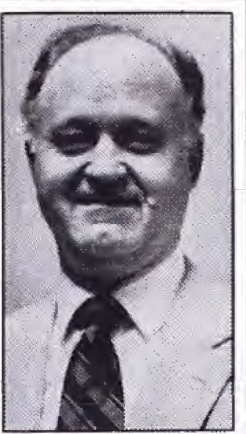

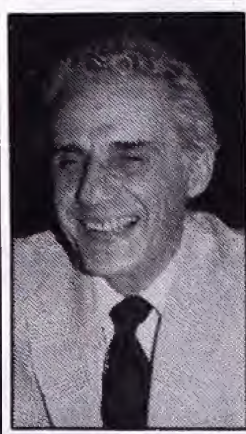

Three candidates are vying for the two seats. The two top vote-getters will receive four-year terms on the seven-member school board.

Voters in the Van Buren Public School District will head to the polls Monday, June 13 to decide who will occupy two seats on the local school board.

Seven candidates are vying for the two seats. The two top vote-getters will receive four-year terms on the seven-member school board. The name of Rachel Badanowski will also appear on the ballot, although she withdrew from the race after the legal deadline.

Members of the school board are the policy-makers for all public education programs in the district. The district includes the city of Belleville and parts of Sumpter, Van Buren and Canton townships.

Polls are open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Why did you decide to seek this office?

I decided to seek re-election as board trustee because I feel that my past experience and my qualifications can only be an asset to the board of education. I have a great interest in the education of our young people. Our young men and young women must prepare for ever-changing technologies. I have many good feelings about the educational process in Romulus. It has been good in the past (we have two Romulus High School graduates now attending Harvard and others attending many other fine colleges), and it will get even better. My three daughters have had all of their elementary and secondary education in Romulus.	Quite simply, I decided to seek office for the Romulus Board of Education because I am concerned about the future of quality education for our students. Making a positive contribution toward this goal should be the primary and obvious reason for any person seeking an office as such.	I am currently a school board member.	I feel that I can provide a balance and complement the priorities and talents of the present board. As a parent of elementary school children, my viewpoint on issues may differ and serve to stimulate better board decisions. In addition, my professional experience in a highly competitive industry will supplement the talents of the present board to provide more alternative approaches to solving the problems of the school district.	I have a direct, vested interest in quality education, as my son John is a student at Belleville High School. My prime motivation is to exercise my abilities and use my accumulated experience and knowledge to the fullest extent in furthering the quality of education in Van Buren Public Schools. My main concerns are for our children and their educational needs. Education is one of the greatest resources we have, and I am committed to helping with the development and improvement of our educational opportunities for our school district.	I decided to seek the office of trustee because I was appalled that our last school board election was an affirmation and not an election. That is simply not healthy. To add to this fact, one candidate was the son of a member of the board. I came to the conclusion I had no right to be critical unless I was willing to help supply an answer to the problem. It was time for me to quit talking, stop being a "Monday morning quarterback" and become an active participant in the political system.	Since I've experienced the field of education and the curriculum for 12 years, I realize the needs of our students' future. They need new and different ideas. Students should be a part of implementing their ideas.	I decided to seek this office because I have three children in school, and I would like to be more involved in the decision-making about their learning and help make and meet goals of high education standards in Van Buren and Belleville schools.	I decided to seek this office because of my continuing interest in education and its importance to children and adults.	I desire to seek this office out of a sincere desire to bring together the board, community and staff to create a balanced program we will all support.

Why do you feel you are qualified to fill the position you seek?

I feel that I am qualified because of my past seven years experience. In the past seven years, I have been co-chairperson of the finance committee, vice-president of the board, board president and trustee. I am presently a member of the finance committee and chairperson of the personnel-grievance committee. In my past seven years, I have missed only one regular board meeting. I have attended many meetings and seminars outside of Romulus to keep abreast of what new ideas are coming about for education.	I feel that I am qualified for this position because, first of all, I genuinely care about our students. I have had a long history of school involvement covering all realms of educational levels, including administration and one-on-one student interaction. I have previously served on the Romulus Board of Education for nine years, so I am very familiar and experienced with the responsibilities that a board member must perform.	I am currently a school board member.	I have a sincere interest in making a positive contribution to the community. I have a vested interest in the future of Van Buren schools as a parent of school-age children. I am experienced in management techniques that are effective in austere financial times.	The most important quality that any candidate can bring to this office would be the true desire to acquire the best education obtainable for the students of Van Buren Public Schools. I feel that this desire can be achieved by use of my educational background, consisting of a bachelor of business administration degree and a master of business administration degree, 35 years of experience in the automotive industry, including 25 years of negotiating experience, along with serving the past four years on the board of education.	I feel I am very qualified to be a trustee on the Van Buren Public Schools Board of Education. I would bring to the board 18 years of experience with the workings, changes and challenges of public education. I also have a vested interest in my school district. I currently have three children who attend Van Buren schools, and I feel my kids deserve the best!	I've taught students for 12 years and I've organized many curriculums to adjust to their needs. I think a solid foundation should be structured to produce qualified graduates, no matter what avenue of work they desire.	I feel as though I have my full time to devote to this position and wanting the best quality education for my and all other children is going to help qualify me.	My 25 years experience as a school board member.	An honest commitment to listen to everyone involved and work with them to achieve what we all want - the best education possible for our children.

What do you feel are the major issues in this election, and what are your opinions of each one?

Probably the biggest challenge we face is that of equitable funding for education. We are looking for a method of funding that would put us on par with the wealthier school districts. Our legislators in Lansing have been working with ideas that include raising the state sales tax to 6 percent.	I have also served on several committees, such as the Parent Advisory Committee, finance committee, the Western Wayne Association for the Mentally Handicapped, board member of St. Louis School for the Mentally Handicapped, the Romulus Recreation Commission, not to mention several PTA and PTO groups, as well as volunteer work in the schools such as a voluntary librarian.	Fiscal responsibility. Three years ago, the voters approved a 6-mill increase in operating millage. This was sufficient to generate a substantial reserve fund during the first two years. But, now, the district is deficit spending. Better planning is needed. Balanced priorities. During consideration recently, proposed were program reductions.	Like so many other communities, financial aid from the federal and state governments is greatly needed, without placing the burden on the taxpayers in our community. The present proposed state sales-tax increase of 2 cents, as proposed by the state government, would be helpful if it were to pass along with it the reduction of the property tax for individuals.	The issues are: • A lack of communication. A good program of communication develops trust, mutual understanding and respect that makes the community and schools feel like partners in providing the best programs possible for the future leaders of our world... the students of Van Buren.	Whenever there is an anticipated money shortage, the first cuts come from the students - music, gym and art. These subjects should never be cut. I remember an ex-student of mine would always say his favorite subject was gym. That young man won a four-year scholarship to Michigan State University in football.	Millage. I am not in favor of higher taxes, but if our children's classes and specials will be cut due to lack of funds, then I am 100 percent for a millage approval. Our children are our most important assets, and we must do all we can to ensure them the classes to learn and have the highest quality education for them to learn.	The major issue is how we continue and even improve our educational offerings in the face of falling income and rising costs.	Loss of community support, lack of financial stability. I would ask the community and staff for help in creating a program they would support. Then, together, we would finance that program and look at what the cost would be in future years. Then, we would look at what options we have to assure that adequate revenue would be available to maintain our program.

Landfill hearing set

Residents urged to speak out on site

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

Area residents who want to express their views at the relicensing hearing for Wayne Disposal to operate a hazardous waste landfill must register prior to 7:30 p.m. Monday to speak at the June 28 hearing.

The deadline for submitting written comments is the same.

Time for the public hearing has been set at 7 p.m. June 28 at the Van Buren Township Hall.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has announced its intent to issue a Federal Resource Conservation and Recovery Act permit to Wayne Disposal and Ford Motor Co. to continue to operate a hazardous waste landfill on property owned by Ford at 49350 North I-94 Service Drive in Van Buren Township. The EPA also gave notice that "further evaluation is necessary to determine if releases of hazardous wastes or hazardous constituents to the environment are occurring or have occurred" at the site.

The facility is currently licensed to accept a wide variety of hazardous wastes, but restricted from accepting waste which "is ignitable, reactive, contains free liquid, or is incompatible with the landfill design."

One of the issues that township officials said they will bring to the public hearing is the recent incident where radioactive wastes were said to be slated for dumping in the landfill, but which the operator denied were planned to be dumped there. The incident is currently under investigation by the state attorney general.

At the close of the hearings, the EPA will evaluate all comments, and each person who submitted written comments or requested notice of the decision will receive notice of the final decision.

Written comments on the application and draft permit will be accepted through June 20, and may be sent to Adrienne Hardy, U.S. EPA, Region Five, 230 S. Dearborn, 5HS-JCK-13, Chicago, Ill. 60604.

Condition of Rouge 'is stable'

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

The Rouge River is in the same condition it was in 15 years ago and that's the good news.

Legislators, teachers and concerned citizens gathered June 3 at the Henry Ford Estate to discuss the future of the Rouge River with those that have been studying the waterway.

The Rouge 2000 seminar was staged as a kick-off to the Rouge Rescue project which took place June 4.

James Bredin, executive director of Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG), said studies indicate that the Rouge River of today is in the same condition as the Rouge River of 1973.

"Over the last 15 years little has happened to the Rouge," Bredin said. "We have to make sure the situation doesn't get any worse."

The 126-mile Rouge River winds through Wayne, Oakland and a small portion of Washenaw County. More than 1.5 million people reside in the Rouge River basin.

Studies conducted over the past three years reveal that the river is a health hazard due primarily to combined sewer overflow and storm sewers.

To help alleviate the problem SEMCOG officials have completed a 3,000-page, 20-year plan to clean up the river.

Glenn Brown of the Wayne County Department of Health told members of the audience that making contact with water in the Rouge River is in itself dangerous. There is also the concern of people eating contaminated fish from the river.

Of the 70 testing stations set up by the health department, 65 samples were in violation of health standards. The average level of contamination was five times greater than that accepted by the health department, Brown said. More than 16 percent of the pollutants are from humans.

The Westland, Canton Township, Inkster and Wayne testing sites all indicated severe problems in areas of water contact, fisheries, agricultural supply, canoeing and navigation and general aesthetics.

In a continuing effort to clean up the waterway, the health department this year will study businesses and industries in the area to determine if and to what extent they release pollutants into the river.

The Remedial Action Plan, devised by SEMCOG members, was also a topic of conversation. The $900 million price tag was especially an area of concern.

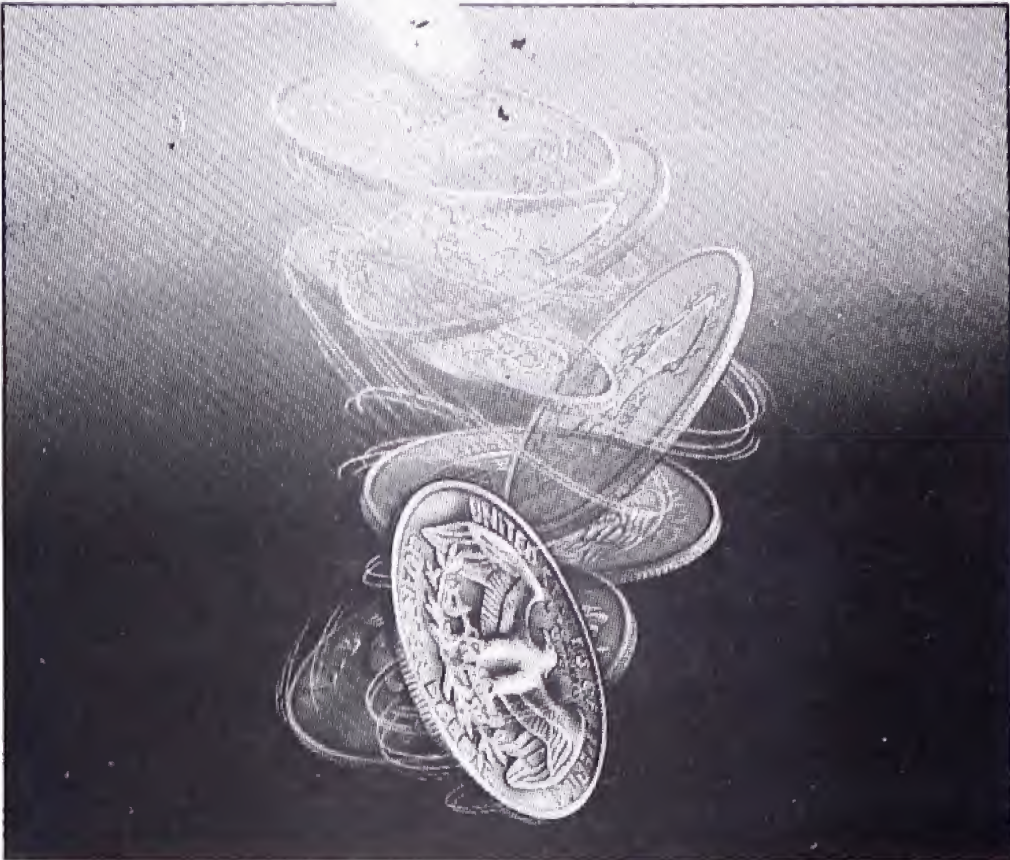

Kenneth Fenner, a representative of the Environmental Protection Agency, told the audience not to expect a lot of financial backing from the federal government.

Fenner urged the communities to consider establishing a drainage district and emphasized that the state will have to provide most of the funds for this long-term project.

Legislation to put a $800 million quality of life bond issue on the November ballot could be the shot in the arm, for which Friends of the Rouge have been waiting.

Approximately $300 million of the bond monies is earmarked for waterway cleanup, although all of it will not go toward the Rouge effort.

Joint conference meet to become annual event

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

A joint session between the Conference of Western Wayne and the Downriver Community Conference was praised as "outstanding and informative" by the executive directors of both groups.

The gathering was so productive, they said, that in the future two conferences will be scheduled annually instead of one.

CWW Executive Director Ann Bollin said the event was "well attended" and productive in its discussions about such mutual concerns as the Enhanced 911 emergency telephone service, the Rouge River cleanup and solid waste issues. In addition, according to Bollin, the two groups heard an update on the jail task force report and discussed alternative programs to jail sentencing such as prevention programs, work projects and overnight jail stays with daytime release - all depending on the severity of the offenses.

DCC Director Jim Jones termed the June 2 gathering as

"like a mayors exchange day" where ideas from each conference were presented and discussed. Unlike a formal meeting, Jones said, the joint session was "an exchange of ideas," but one at which no formal actions were taken.

"Why should each community have to re-invent the wheel, when they can learn how other communities have dealt with the same issue?" Jones said. "For example, the CWW is ahead of us on their solid waste plans, and we can gain some information from their research and planning."

Some of the issues discussed, according to Jones, were "non-Detroit issues, but not Detroit-bashing." Jones noted that the DCC and CWW represent 43 percent of the population of Wayne County, and must work together to gain their fair share of economic growth.

"Detroit has the size and the affluence to do things on its own, but most of our communities are so small that they must work with other units" - such as the two conferences - to make their voices heard, Jones said.

Detroit River pollution eyed

Water quality experts from U.S. and Canada will discuss toxins in the Detroit River and how they affect fish during a public meeting, set from 7 to 9:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Cleary Auditorium, Windsor, Canada.

Harold Humphrey, science liaison coordinator for the Michigan Department of Public Health Center for Environmental Sciences, and J.N. Bishop, director of the Ontario Ministry of Environment Water Resources Branch, will describe the impact of pollutants on the river drinking water and fish.

The meeting is a part of the Detroit River Remedial Action Plan, which focuses on the cleanup of the river and its tributaries. The plan is being developed by Environment Canada, the Ontario Ministry of the Environment and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

DNR officials have contracted the Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments to generate public input in the remedial action plan process.

Topics to be discussed at the meeting include a description of the toxins in the Detroit River, human health impacts of the toxins and a report from the Binational Public Advisory Council on the progress of the remedial action plan.

For more information about attending the meeting, call 961-4266.

SEMCOG is a group of the officials and representatives from local and state units of government in the area. Purpose of the organization is to unite for the betterment of all of southeastern Michigan residents, providing common solutions to communitywide problems.

THE AUG. 2 PRIMARY BALLOT

May 31 was the filing deadline for local, county, state and federal candidates to enter the 1988 political race. Candidates who are running on the Democrat, Republican and Tisch party tickets — and in some nonpartisan races — will appear on the Aug. 2 primary election ballot.

Independent candidates have until July 21 to file their qualifying petitions for office. Independents, however, will appear not on the primary election ballot but on the general election ballot in November. In a primary election the members of each major party nominate candidates for the general election. Also conducted are nonpartisan primaries in which the two candidates receiving the most votes for an office are nominated.

In a general election, all voters elect officials from the party nominees and independent candidates.

Voters have until Tuesday, July 5 to register for the primary election.

On the primary election ballot are: (Voters will choose one or more from their political party in each category. Explanations on districts given below.)

Primary battle has few sparks

Candidates, vote face apathy at the Aug. 2 ballotbox

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

If you can't get excited over the Aug. 2 primary election, don't feel bad - you're expressing what most voters are, and it isn't apathy.

Because there are no controversial issues or proposals on the primary ballot and, since most Republicans will concede Wayne County, a traditional Democratic Party fortress, to their political rivals, there is little interest in the upcoming election.

In fact, two veteran county lawmakers - Milton Mack (11th district) and Kay L. Beard (12th district) find themselves without any opponent this year.

Mack is not being challenged for his county seat, while Beard, who appeared to have a Republican challenger, discovered on Friday that Gerald Cox (Garden City) was disqualified because the nominating petition he filed apparently misrepresented the office he sought.

Wayne County officials explained that Cox originally took petitions out for precinct delegate, and submitted those petitions to the county clerk's office with the words "precinct delegate" crossed off and the words county commissioner inserted and written in pencil.

This is the first time in her long political career Beard finds herself without a Democratic or Republican opponent.

"Needless to say, I am pleased," Beard commented. "I believe this reflects a sentiment that the voters in my district are satisfied with my job performance. And I will continue to serve my constituents to the best of my ability."

Bryan Amann, 15th District Democratic Party chairman, doesn't see the political fireworks igniting until the November General Election when the White House, several local propositions, U.S. Senate and House seats as well as local House and township boards are up for grabs.

"I don't expect significant changes," said Amann. "When you look at Wayne County, the Democrats traditionally have control. On the state level, all looks fairly settled, except for the 36th where Jeanne Stempfen is gearing up to take on Gerald Law - that should be an interesting one."

"But, of course, in November, with the White House at stake, 1988 will tell us a lot about how the country feels about a lot of things. And barring some unforeseeable event, an economic disaster, an international tragedy, this appears to be a political year where there will be little political change."

Rev. David Thompson, the chairman of the 15th District Republican Party, agreed with his counterpart.

"We've mended our fences and have geared up for the national elections," Thompson said. "I believe the voters will give the Republican Party a vote of confidence in November. The party has accomplished a lot during the eight years Reagan has been in office."

A glance at the August primary will find Republicans seeking a candidate from a field of four to challenge veteran U.S. Congressman William D. Ford (D-15th). Those seeking the Republican Party nomination are Glen Kassel (Westland), Peter Bundarin (Canton), Burl C. Adkins (Southgate) and Robert Foder (Westland).

Donald W. Riegle, Jr. (D) will have to defeat either Republican hopefuls Jim Dunn of East Lansing or Robert J. Huber of Troy to retain his seat in the U.S. Senate.

Sander Levin (D-17th district) who is seeking re-election to the House of Representatives, has only one Republican challenger, Dennis M. Flessland of Huntington Woods to be concerned about in his bid for a second term.

On the local scene, four incumbent members of the state House - all Democrats - William R. Keith (33th), Justine Barnes (38th), James Kosteva (37) and Lynn Owen (21) have no primary election opponents but will be faced with Republican challengers in November. Harold Richardson of Inkster is taking on Keith; while two Republicans - George Erdel (Westland) and Kenneth L. Raupp (Westland) have expressed a desire to snatch the House seat away from Barnes.

Owen finds himself in a rematch with James G. Schmitz of Monroe. Schmitz gave Owen a battle the last time around.

Inkster residents are also keeping their eyes on the 22nd District Court race where a heated battle is brewing for Judge John McCartney's job. McCartney announced his retirement and will be stepping down Dec. 31.

Seeking the job are longtime city council member, attorney Patrick O'Neil, and attorneys Sylvia James and Elizabeth Walker. One of the three candidates will be eliminated in the Aug. 2 primary.

Festivals: Behind-the-scenes jobs are crucial to success

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

Although community festivals are usually three days of fun-filled activities for the visitors, they are often year-long projects for the organizers and coordinators of the events.

According to Leona Van Buhler and Pat Birbeck, who have coordinated activities for the annual National Strawberry Festival in Belleville for several years, the work on the next festival begins the day after the current one ends.

In fact, they said, the evaluation of the festival begins as the event is taking place. After the three-day event is over, the Strawberry Festival Committee meets to discuss the highlights and the problems encountered during the event and to make its preliminary plans for the following year.

"One of the benefits the festival has had for the community," Van Buhler said, "is that it gives us an identity. When I travel around the country and mention the name of Belleville, people automatically respond 'oh, that's where the Strawberry Festival takes place.' We are known nationwide for our festival."

Due to the large volume of work associated with the annual festival, Donna Hall was named executive director of the event and has taken over many of the duties formerly performed by Birbeck, a Strawberry Festival Committee member, and Van Buhler, executive director of the Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce.

Hall works with participating vendors, church groups, community organizations and governmental representatives to coordinate the event.

She credits the work of the festival committee "who work diligently and without pay other than the thanks of the community" for the success of the festival. However, she is sure that few of the thousands of people who attend the event have any idea of the behind-the-scenes work which makes the festival successful.

Throughout the year she sends out applications and letters, acquires hold-harmless agreements and registration fees from participants, meets with city officials to work out mutual concerns and conducts pre-festival meetings with the board of directors.

One of her tasks, she said, is to keep the "flavor of the festival so that it remains quaint." Because of the success of the event and the large number of people it draws, many individuals seek to set up activities or sell items at the event, according to Hall. Part of her job, she said, is to limit the number of participants so that "there are not dozens of people selling the same items or duplicating the same services" - so that the Strawberry Festival remains a community activity.

Festivals scheduled this summer include:

- Belleville Strawberry Festival, June 17-19, a salute to the strawberry industry with arts and crafts, parade and special strawberry treats plus rides, entertainment and food.

- Canton Country Festival and Flower Festival, July 1-3, with games, rides and food.

- Sumpter Country Fest, July 29-30, a parade, rodeo, demolition derby, games, rides and food.

Truck safety bills in state House

The House transportation committee is looking at bills that will strengthen trucking regulations. The measures would do such things as require annual inspections for trucks that transport hazardous materials, fund truck safety enforcement teams, restrict trucks to the right lanes of divided highways except for passing, require covers on loose loads and 22-inch bumpers on all trucks, etc.

New child mental health policies

A bill before Gov. James Blanchard will provide transportation for minors needing psychiatric care. Police will be authorized to place the child in protective custody and take him or her to the hospital under provisions of the bill. Police are also authorized under the bill to return a minor in need of treatment who leaves the hospital without permission or overstays an authorized leave if the parent or guardian can't. The person requesting the admission must come to the hospital and remain during the examination that must be conducted within 48 hours by a certified child psychiatrist.

Finance institutions to be licensed

Presently a company that offers financial services has to get as many as five licenses from the state, but now a combined license and fee structure has been created for secondary mortgage, credit card, car financing and check sale services. The bills have been approved by the legislature and should be before the governor soon.

Six-pack ring bill before governor

Governor James Blanchard has before him a bill that requires all six-ring devices that hold beverage containers together to be made of a material that will dissolve within 360 days when exposed to sunlight and other natural elements. Many Michigan fish, birds, and animals have died after becoming entangled in discarded six-pack rings.

Tax trap for drug dealers under bill

The state House tax committee currently has a bill that would create a tax stamp for illegal controlled substances. If a drug dealer was arrested and the stamp was not on the drug containers, the criminal would face additional penalties of up to $10,000 in fines and three years in jail. Proponents of the bill say that the tax stamp would deter illegal drug business in Michigan, take more dealers off the streets and raise some new money that could be used for anti-drug activities.

Spinal cord injury registry established

The governor recently signed a new law that requires a record of spinal cord and traumatic brain injuries that occur in Michigan be kept by the state Department of Public Health. The registry will help medical and safety professionals to study any patterns of these injuries, determine how they can be prevented, and discover how the victims can best be helped, proponents say.

AIDS screening

Marriage tests may include disease check

By TERRY JACOBY
ANP Staff Writer

The most important question asked two people getting married may no longer be do you take this person to be your lawfully wedded husband or wife? An even more important question today might be "Has either one of you ever taken drugs with a needle or been involved in a homosexual relationship?"

State Representative Gerald H. Law is one member of the house who is in favor of a bill requiring marriage license applicants to be educated and counseled about AIDS (Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome). But the Republican from the 36th district isn't sure this is enough.

"When people get married they usually only know each other for a couple of years," explained Law. "They don't know what the other was doing 10 years ago or five years ago."

"I think the system has to step in when someone tests positive for AIDS and tell the person's spouse that the person they are about to marry is a carrier of the AIDS virus. They have the right to know this."

The bill, which is currently being discussed by members of the Michigan House of Representatives, would amend the public health code to require that applicants for marriage licenses be counseled and educated about venereal diseases and AIDS. It would also offer additional services as appropriate.

As part of the counseling, the couple would be offered testing and a pamphlet which contains information on AIDS, AIDS counseling and testing sites. A couple would obtain a certificate from either a physician or a local health officer which verifies that they have been counseled.

"We have heard some real horror stories from married people who have contracted the AIDS virus," said Law. "And they have told us that their rights have been violated by people who had the disease."

Representative Lynn Owen (D-21) agrees that it is time to take action with regards to AIDS.

"I think it is a good bill," said Owen, who also agrees that more measures have to be taken to help control the disease.

"I think we need to show more concern about AIDS and this bill is a good start and a good step in protecting people and educating people."

Law, who would be in favor of mandatory testing, wants AIDS treated like the serious disease that it is.

"There are a lot of people who don't even like to say the word," explained Law. "During the counseling we will be telling people that if they have been involved in certain activities that put them in the high risk category they should get tested."

"I guess we are just hoping that people are responsible and take the tests and if they do test positive tell their spouse."

Area housing market still booms

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

In late May and early June, single-dwelling house sales are usually placed on hold as families prepare for graduation and vacation, according to salespeople in the real estate industry.

But the city of Westland continues to capture the center of attention for home and condominium buyers, according to the latest figures released by the Western Wayne Oakland Board of Realtors.

During the month of May there have been 97 sales of homes and condominiums, leading the area.

"The market has been very active," noted Lou Grossman of Grossman Real Estate who stressed that there were two major obstacles confronting the present market which had to be resolved "before it would really take off."

"First, there are not enough homes on the market - a lack of listings," Grossman said, "and, secondly, the requirements to qualify (for a mortgage) have increased."

"We're finding that a husband and a wife have to work in order to meet the financial requirements to qualify these days and in the past it wasn't like that."

Dottie LeSuer of the Wayne-Westland based Earl Keim office agreed with Grossman that the present inventory of available homes was low.

"But, traditionally, during late May and June it's like that because it's graduation, vacation time," LeSuer said. "But, let me say this, that we had 28 listings for May and total sales of 28 during that period. It's obvious that what we are placing out there is being bought up."

The local residential real estate market began warming up in April, according to the realtors who reported a sales gain of nearly 9 percent over March in the Western Wayne

Oakland County areas.

Marjory R. Pickett, Metro MLS president, concurred that listings, that lack of them, are the major obstacle to a booming market.

"Listings, the biggest deterrent to an even stronger market, dropped off slightly while sales were at their strongest level so far this year," Pickett said.

"Buyer traffic is remaining strong and well-maintained properties continue to move off the market rapidly in the most popular locations," she added.

Although Westland led the area in sales of homes and condos, Canton Township also kept pace last month with 79; followed by Wayne (26), Inkster (24), Belleville-Van Buren Township (19); Sumpter Township (9) and Romulus (7). These figures reflect the sales of homes and condominiums.

Compared countywide, the figures reflect a strong market.

Sumpter rodeo is planned

Highlight of the Sumpter Country Fest will be the appearance of a rodeo. The event is slated on July 29, 30 and 31 on the grounds of the Sumpter Community Center, across Sumpter Road from the township hall.

Monster appears

The monster truck, Heartbeat, will be featured at the 42nd Wayne County Fair which opens on July 20.

Also highlighting the five-day event will be Vegas Nights, pig races and amusement rides. Additional entertainment and fair exhibits are slated at the event which will be conducted at I-94 and Quirk Road, Belleville.

Our choices for better education

It's 1988. Do you know where your school-age children are headed?

Education. Educational reform. A nation at risk. The terms have become our national and local watchwords, as we finally come to terms with the fact that our schools are not producing the caliber of students needed to become effective leaders in what is fast becoming an ultra-competitive society.

We speak of a return to the basics. We talk of throwing more tax dollars into our public education system. We propose major changes in the way we educate our children in hopes that they will become better leaders — world leaders — and better models of the American dream.

But educational reform begins at home. It begins next Monday for voters in all area school districts, voters who will choose the elected officials who will shape local public education policies, programming, services and staffing. The decision is, no doubt, a difficult one. But a wise choice in that decision is essential before any form of progress and reform can be made to our current education system.

Today, we bring before you our choices for better public education of tomorrow. What follows is a list of the school board candidates we endorse. This list is not a prediction of the winners — but merely our vote of confidence in their abilities, ideas and plans. We urge you to join us in our choices and, most importantly, to vote.

We support:

Inkster Public Schools

■ Our vote of confidence goes to Naomi James and Hilliard Hampton Jr. James, an incumbent, is familiar with the drawbacks of the district and has expressed good ideas for the future. Hampton, a newcomer, has demonstrated sound political savvy in the past, has an impressive educational background and has developed very useful ideas to improve the school system. We are hoping he can put those ideas to work.

Plymouth-Canton Community Schools

■ Although many of the candidates have shown a keen interest in a better school system, we must give our vote of confidence to incumbents Lester Walker and E. J. McClendon. With a growing school system and one that, ironically, faces the financial worries of a declining system, we feel the Plymouth-Canton school board needs a body of experience to depend on and to grow. The Plymouth-Canton district has an impressive reputation. But it is a reputation that needs preserving and polishing. These two incumbents and other members of the current school board must work toward that goal now more than ever.

■ A "yes" vote on the Headless override ballot proposal will benefit all students in the district. Voters must remember that Headlee fails to account for increases in salaries and supplies.

Romulus Community Schools

■ Good things are on the horizon for the Romulus school district, and it will take active school board members such as Kenneth E. Berlenn and Pat Patterson to bring many of the current "promises" to life. As the district rides the teeter-tauter of an in-formula and out-of-formula status, school board members must be planning for the future and working to capitalize on the economic boomlet waiting to happen in the area. We feel these two incumbents can be useful in this planning.

■ A "yes" vote on the two ballot proposals is only common sense. Voting "yes" won't cost taxpayers any more money, while it will allow the district to eliminate a large deficit.

Van Buren Public Schools

■ Current school board members Jere Dolph and Dr. Richard Muse should both be allowed a chance to again show their colors for the district. Dolph has clear ideas on how to solve district financial problems and has provided good input at meetings. On the heels of a considerably problemed 1987-88 school year, the Van Buren school system needs sound leaders who have answers to financial woes and teacher negotiations. Both of these men, we feel, have those answers in hand.

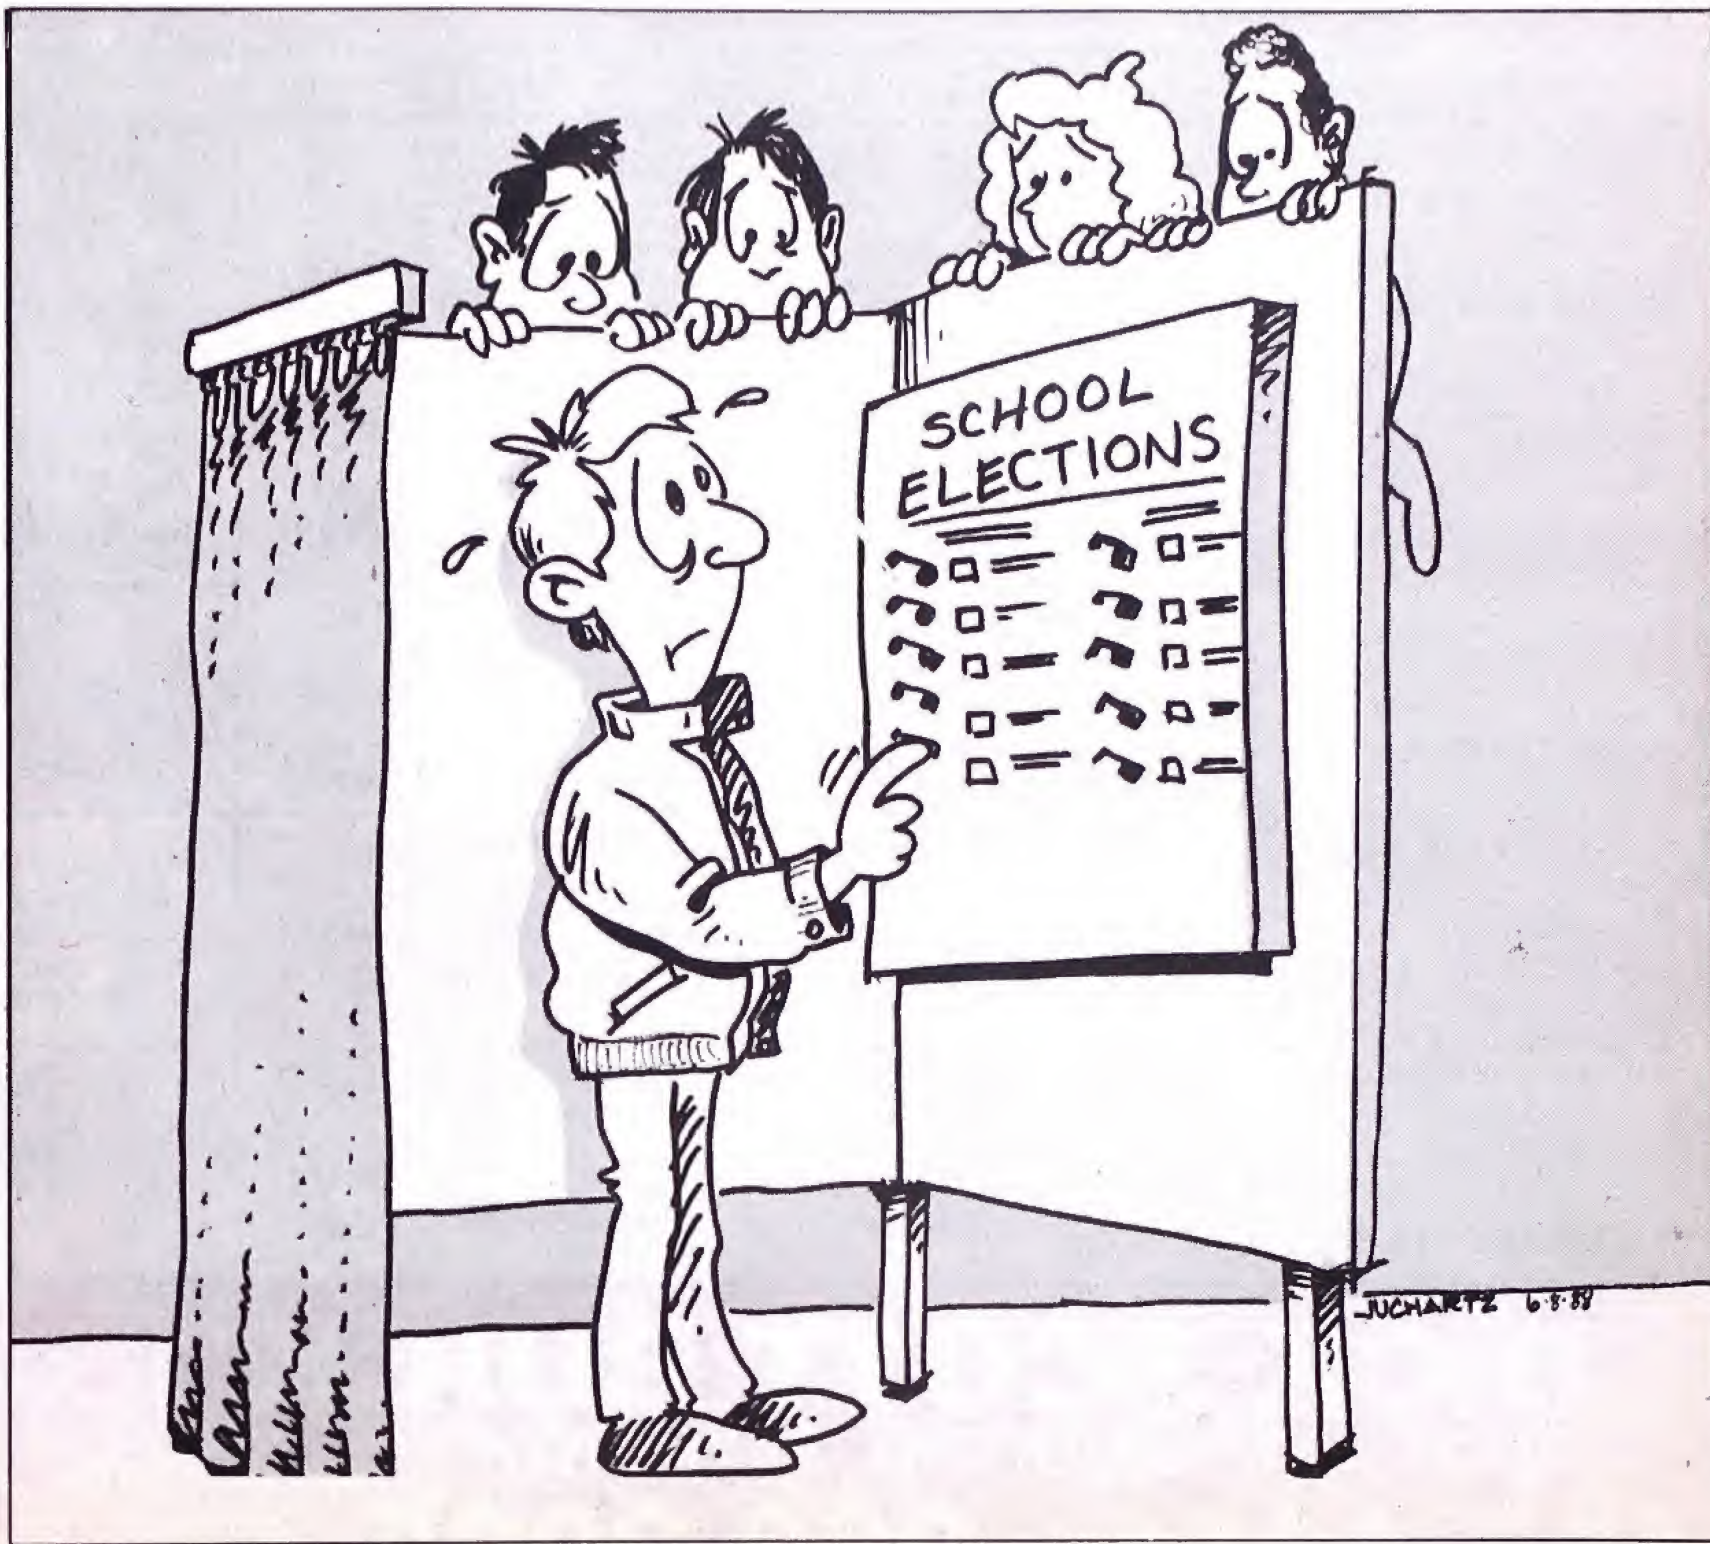

■ A "yes" vote on the two ballot proposals — one for asbestos removal, the other for a $2 million cafeteria replacement proposal — are essential to a continued improving school system. The asbestos removal is required by the state, and the enlarged cafeteria is a must for the safety and welfare of students on a closed campus.

Wayne-Westland Community Schools

■ A sincere interest in the community and a better education for students make perfect attributes for school board candidates. Thus, incumbents Kathleen Chorbajian and Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek are the logical choices to be returned to office for another term. Both women have shown exemplary skills of leadership, district support and planning. They both also vote their conscious — another fine quality of any elected official.

Westwood Schools

■ The choices are few in the Westwood School District. Only two candidates have filed for the two available seats. Nevertheless, both Jeannette Konchel and Mavis Penn should be lauded for their past participation, dedication and support of the district. We know both will lead the school system in making the many difficult decisions regarding change, needs and quality currently being addressed.

Are tax dollars being given away?

I just finished reading the June 1 editorial (Hospital monies should be refunded) on the PCHA (Peoples Community Hospital Authority).

I want the reasons these people have for giving my and other taxpayers' hard-earned money away.

Community spirit is alive for Inkster

Community spirit is alive and well in Inkster. A notice was printed in the Inkster Ledger-Star for volunteers to help with the second annual planting of marigolds on the Inkster Golden Mile — the median islands on Michigan Avenue, between Beech Daly and Henry Ruff.

One hundred volunteers responded by planting more than 12,000 flowers, covering a distance of almost three miles.

In addition to time and labor,

sororities, churches, service organizations, businesses and individuals responded to our call for financial assistance by adopting one of the islands on the Golden Mile, raising nearly $800 to help pay for the flowers.

All of this led to our success in paving the main street, the heart of our city, with golden flowers — a living testament to the pride we all share in Inkster.

"Thank you" to the following individuals and organizations for time and financial support: Inkster Girl Scouts; Springhill Baptist Church, Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Flags Food Store, Barden Cablevision, Our Master Lutheran Church, Nora, Hemming, Essad and Polaczyk, P.C., Charles Chase Jr., Stardust Lounge, Dearborn Heights Girls Scouts, Zeta Nu Zeta Sorority, Top Ladies of Distinction, Inkster Athletic Department, Inkster Democratic Club, Esquire Motel, Avon and Bungalow motels, Eastside Wholesale Siding World, Jo-Jo AB Inc. and White House Inn.

A special "thank you" to: Westside Greenhouse for growing the flowers, Ferry Carnique, director of Inkster Ice Arena, for providing lunch and refreshments, department of public works and the city of Inkster for maintaining the flowers, by providing water, fertilizers and weed control, and the Associated Newspapers for being generous and supportive of our efforts.

Parking lot is needed in Wayne

Farmer Jacks should move down by A&P or Kroger, where they need a big parking lot. The city of Wayne needs to take the house down and sell the parking lot (by Farmer Jack) to St. Mary's and Wayne-Westland Federal Credit Union for a parking lot.

Why does everything have to move to Westland? Why not Wayne?

No, not really because the Russians want to be number one and so does the U.S., so they keep building nuclear weapons.

No, the competition between the two is so great. Right now, the summit was just a peace offering, and who knows how long it will last.

Not really. Even if we sign treaties, one side will still build arms.

I don't know if it's going to help. The summit might ease tension between Russian and the U.S., but most of the problems are in Central America and the Middle East.

Brooks wins pitcher's duel en route to 'A' softball crown

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

A three-run seventh inning rally lifted Belleville to a 5-4 victory over Trenton and the Class A district softball championship Saturday at Temperance Bedford.

Trenton erased a 2-0 Belleville lead with a four-run surge, cashing in on four Tiger errors after two were out.

"It looked as if the ceiling was collapsing on us," said Belleville Coach Peggy Curtis whose team marches into this Saturday's regional playoffs in Dearborn against the survivor of the Detroit district. "To our credit we didn't cave in and came back in that seventh to win it."

Dearborn has been designated as the host for the regional. The two regional games will be played at King Boring Field, located on Greenfield, just south of Michigan Ave. Belleville has the first game scheduled for 10 a.m., and Taylor Center is matched with Mercy High of Farmington Hills in the second game (noon). The championship will be decided at 2 p.m.

Curtis said she doesn't know much about their first round opponent, "but, any team coming out of the Detroit district is bound to have a lot of talent. We must eliminate our mistakes and play tough on defense to win," she added.

Brenda Brooks again got the job done for the Tigers. The phenomenal Belleville pitcher tossed a three-hitter in the championship game and had blanked Trenton until the sixth when the defense began to collapse all around her. She notched seven strikeouts and walked four. Loser Rose Chaffin gave up seven walks and struck out one in pitching a five-hitter.

In that decisive seventh, Chaffin got Marcy Korgal to ground out, then she gave up a single to Becky Fitch, bringing Kathy Murphy to the plate. Murphy socked one back to the third baseman, who fired the ball wide of first, winding up in right field. The outfielder helped the Tiger cause with another error, allowing Fitch to score and Murphy to reach third.

Christy Garrett then drilled a Chaffin pitch for a run-scoring single that tied the game at four-all. That brought Lisa Bishop to the plate and Bishop, who had failed to hit for the day, responded with a triple to drive in the go-ahead run.

Becky Preston walked and the Tigers' attempt for a double steal backfired as both runners were thrown out.

In the bottom of the seventh, Brooks faced Milno who popped up to Preston. That brought up Mans who had two hits off of Brooks. Brooks got her to fly out to center.

Belleville sealed the title when Brooks got Barclay to ground to Monroe and Trenton were the only Wolverine 'A' Conference softball teams to hand the Tigers of Belleville losses in the league. Coach Peggy Curtis' club came back to beat their arch-rivals at Temperance Bedford over the weekend to capture a Class A district championship and advance to the regional playoffs. Members of the Belleville district-winning team include: Delaine Orcher (front row, from left), Lisa Bishop, Becky Preston, Diane Wisniewski, Brenda Brooks, Becky Fitch, Marcy Korgal, and Tonya Kjellin; in the second row are Kelly Rochon, Jennifer Adkins, Linda Pasek, Christy Garrett, Kathy Murphy, Brandi Price, Keshia Wilson, Deanne Leslie and manager Sherrie Murphy.

Bulldogs fail to score point at state finals

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Robichaud High's state finalists were greeted with disappointment at the Class B track & field championships staged on Saturday in Sturgis.

The Bulldogs failed to score and were erased from the pathways before they reached the finals.

"I am very disappointed," said Robichaud Coach Jeff Flounory who took Tyrone Wheatley and James Gee to the Wheatley also was an All-Area football selection as a freshman.

At Sturgis, Wheatley failed to qualify for the finals in the 100-meters when he finished fifth in the semifinals with a 10.9 effort. (The first four finishers advanced to the finals).

The 14-year-old freshman also had a subpar performance in the long jump competition where he has the capability of going 23 feet. At Sturgis Wheatley's best was a 20 feet, 3 inch jump which left him in the heap and out of the finals.

"I am very disappointed. We just didn't perform as well as I believe we should have. I believe we should have scored some points - and we didn't. It was due to our lack of experience."

Ann Arbor Pioneer erases Belleville, 11-7

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

It just wasn't in the books for Coach John Bertz and the Belleville Tigers.

After defeating Brighton 7-5 in the predistricts, the Tigers ran up against never-say-die Ann Arbor Pioneer last Saturday and blew a six-run second inning lead to drop a 11-7 decision in the first round of the Class A district baseball playoffs. The loss eliminated the Tigers from the playoffs and ended the 1988 season for Belleville.

And, if that wasn't bad enough, the Tigers helped in their own demise, according to the Belleville coach.

"There were a pair of what I believed were catchable fly-

— Coach John Bertz

balls that we didn't make, and we also committed a few mental mistakes that were not typical of us.

"Those errors turned what appeared to be victory into defeat," Bertz said.

Ann Arbor went on to meet Howell in the championship round and won the title.

The Tigers staked starting pitcher Phil Feist to six runs in the bottom of the second, but Pioneer got five of those back in the third then, in the fourth, with Feist lifted for reliever Jeremy Ison, scored four more that put them in the lead for good. They added two insurance runs in the seventh.

In that Tiger second inning, Jerry Bitner got things going when he was safe on an error. Then, after one was out, Rod Schellenberger drilled a single with Bitner stopping at third. John Richards drew a base on balls, loading the bases.

Pioneer pitcher Robbi Kanges got himself deeper in trouble when he also issued Bill Byrd a walk, forcing in one run. Kanges delivered a fastball to Kelly O'Neal, the next batter up, and the Tiger slugger greeted it with a bases-emptying double, making it a 4-0 ballgame.

Vince Sacco then connected for a RBI single but Sacco was erased from the basepath at second after the Pioneers foiled a base-stealing attempt. That was an unfortunate turn of events for the Tigers because the next batter, Bill Ashley, who is hitting the ball at a .602 clip and has 11 home runs to his credit, hammered a double (that would have scored meet. "I believe that we should have scored. And we didn't."

"The problem as I see it was that we lacked the experience to compete with the best the state had to offer. However, to leave it on a positive note, you have to remember that Wheatley is a freshman and this is good experience for him."

"He has three years of varsity competition ahead of him," Flounory concluded.

Wheatley went into the state finals with outstanding credentials. He had captured gold medals in the 100-meter dash and the long jump competition at the regionals and had also won those events in the Suburban Athletic Conference.

Considered one of the finest young athletic talents to hit the local scene in recent years, Robichaud's second and only other state qualifier, James Gee, appeared to be in excellent form in the intermediate hurdles.

"He (Gee) ran quite well," Flounory commented. "But, it appears that his trail foot was not clearing the hurdles as it was supposed to, and the officials disqualified him. That, of course, was a shocking setback for all of us."

Robichaud ended the 1988 SAC and overall track season with a 3-3 won-lost record. The Bulldogs finished third to Oak Park and Willow Run in the conference.

"I believe with the return of such athletes as Wheatley to the lineup a year from now we will be in excellent shape to be serious contenders for the conference title."

Belleville runs like champion at Ann Arbor Invitational

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Coming off of a "respectable" performance at the Class A state track & field championships staged Saturday at Eastern Michigan University, Belleville returned to championship form and chalked up three gold medals at the prestigious Ann Arbor Track Club Invitational.

Although Coach Dave Medley's goal of making it to the top 10 in the state didn't materialize, the veteran Tiger mentor said that he was satisfied with his team's effort at state.

"We were respectable," Medley commented. "Our kids gave it all they had and, although we didn't score, there are signs of improvement."

At the Ann Arbor Invitational where 16 teams representing Washtenaw County high schools including Ann Arbor Pioneer, Huron, Ypsilanti, Ypsilanti Lincoln, Brighton - Belleville fielded the best 800-meter relay team.

Medley's foursome of Michael Gentry, Virgil Chandler, Garrett Clark and Al Tilman coasted to the gold medal as they turned a 1:30.8 in their victory. Incidentally, that winning performance was not their best time of the season. The Tigers have combined in a 1:30.1 earlier in the campaign.

Chandler also was on the winning dais for his performance in the 100-meter dash where he was clocked in the winning time of 10.7.

Tilman closed out his prep career with a silver medal in the high jump. He cleared the bar at 6 feet, 3 inches for the second place. He also picked up his third medal of the afternoon when he anchored the Tigers' mile relay team to a second-place finish. Also in the lineup were Gentry, Chandler and Clark who produced a 3:24.1.

Belleville's 15-year-old Carol Tyson continued to dazzle spectators as she again struck gold in

athletes

The curtains came down on the 1987-88 high school sports season last week, and before the season becomes history, Robichaud this week announced it will honor those athletes who made the headlines and earned of athletic letters in eight sports at a sports banquet.

The letterwinners and their parents have been invited by the Robichaud athletic department coaches and administration to attend a 6 p.m., Wednesday, June 8 Athletic Awards banquet which will be staged in the Robichaud cafeteria.

Letters, certificates, trophies and plaques will be distributed to the athletes. A MVP will also be awarded for each sport.

Swim pool
to open Saturday

The weather outside is beautiful, especially if you're in the mood for swimming.

The Inkster Recreation Department announced this week that the municipal pool will be opened June 11-12, and officials add that they are offering "weekend specials for early registration."

The regular price of $1 and $2 for children and adults, respectively, has been slashed. Children, 17 and under, will be admitted for 50 cents while adult admission is $1.

The pool is located at 2025 Middlebelt Road, immediately behind the Recreation Complex.

While at the pool residents may also purchase hot dogs

With temperatures expected to soar into the nineties all week, the Recreation Complex swimming pool is an inviting sight and site to be. Officials said they are offering "specials" to those who register this weekend.

($1), caramel corn (50 cents) and pop (60 cents).

Officials said that residents mat sign up for swim lessons which will be conducted from 1:15 to 3 p.m.; 3:15 to 5 p.m. and from 5:30 to 6:45 p.m. Those who register during the membership drive will also receive a free T-shirt.

the 100-meter dash. She won the event after covering the distance in a 12.7.

Tyson reset the school record for the 100 in the semifinals at state where she was clocked in 12.6. Tyson also owns the Wolverine 'A' Conference 100 and 200-meter dash titles and with two more years of eligibility ahead for her, coach Michael Garland predicts "she will set some standards that will be very difficult for those who follow to reach."

"Carol works hard and is a dedicated student," Garland noted. "She's a rare talent and a coach's dream. We're looking for a lot of things from her a year from now."

Reflecting on the 1988 season, Medley felt that his team did as best as could be expected.

"We really didn't have a whole lot of experience on this team," Medley said, "but we still did well."

The Tigers will lose through graduation Tilman, Clark and Brian Cook. Although Medley would give anything to "red shirt" the three, he feels the returning letterwinners will form the nucleus of a championship team a year from now.

Ashley moved to third on a passed ball and scored when the Pioneer catcher mishandled a third strike to Scott Janack and threw wild to first.

The loss left the Tigers with a 16-11 overall record. They were 11-14 a year ago at this time. Bertz is satisfied with the progress of his team and believes the Belleville baseball program is finally heading in the right direction.

"I am happy with the progress of this team," Bertz later said. "I believe that the program has improved over a year ago, but I am disappointed that we didn't come out of 1988 with at least a district championship.

Bertz will lose Ashley, who has signed a letter of intent to enroll at Eastern Michigan University next fall, and three other starters: third baseman John Richards, leftfielder Rod Schellenberger, rightfielder Blaine Armstrong and Kris King, a relief pitcher.

"We are definitely going to miss these kids. They have been a tremendous help to the team and to our program."

Champs

Murphy who fired the ball over to first baseman Diane Wisniewski for the final out.

The Tigers got their first run in the third inning when Murphy walked and Garrett tripled her home. They made it a 2-0 ballgame in the fourth when Preston and Wisniewski both drew bases on balls. A passed ball moved up the runners and Preston eventually scored on Brandi Price's sacrifice fly.

In order to reach the finals Belleville had to erase Monroe from its path. Monroe had beaten the Tigers in the conference and are the reigning Wolverine 'A' Conference champs.

In the rematch, the stage became a drama between Brooks and Kim Terrasi. Brooks survived the pitcher's duel, winning what probably is her biggest game of the season 1-0.

The Belleville hurler fanned six, walked none but managed to scatter seven hits for the shutout.

Terrasi walked four and struck out one in tossing a two-hitter.

Belleville scored what proved to be the winning and only run of the game in the bottom of the third inning when Marcy Korgal was safe on an error and moved to second on an outfielder's error. She was sacrificed to third by Becky Fitch and scored when Murphy grounded into a fielder's choice with Korgal managing to slide safely behind the catcher and hook her foot on the bag.

Garret's single and triple were the only hits off of the Monroe pitcher.

Summer fun

City dresses up parks, programs, softball diamonds for season

With the weather acting more like summer than spring, Inkster parks and recreation programs have moved out of doors.

And, moreover, there is a wide spectrum of activities for which residents who have the desire may participate in during the next three months.

Baseball and softball - both for girls and boys; men and women - head the list of summer fun.

The instructional league, geared for the Pee Wee Division (ages 6-8) and midget division (ages 9-12), will get underway June 20 at the Westwood, Oakgrove, Kennedy and King parks.

Introduction to the fundamentals of baseball will be stressed. However, there will be a few intra-park exhibition games.

If you haven't already registered, you may do so on or before June 20. Classes will be conducted from 10 a.m. until noon. There is a $6 registration fee.

Recreation officials said that they are planning to organize a "Youth Baseball League" for all boys and girls, ages 11 to 16. There is a $5 registration fee and those needing more information should contact the recreation department at 728-7530.

The recreation center also is the site for a high school basketball league which begins play June 13. Games are played Monday through Thursday and admission is free.

The date for the annual Johnnie A. Sims Memorial Men's Open Slow Pitch Softball Tournament has been set for July 15. The double-elimination, three-day tournament brings together some of the finest athletes in the state.

Team managers are urged to contact the recreation department if they wish to enter their team. There is a $100 entry fee. All players must be 18 years of age or older, and each team may carry 18 players.

The Inkster Parks and Recreation Department will also be offering a men's "modified" fast-pitch softball tournament. If you would like to enter your team into this tournament, please contact the Inkster recreation complex. There is a $100 registration fee. Games will be played on Aug. 5-6-7.

The summer playground program begins on Monday, June 20 and will run through August 13. Five playground sites throughout the city will be used for the program.

The programs will be offered from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. (with the exception of July 4) Monday through Friday. Among some of the activities that will be organized are arts and crafts, individual and team sports, and various other games under playground supervision.

Those wishing to sign up for playground programs may do so at the recreation center. The playgrounds are located at Demby Park (Pine and Hickory), King Park (Carlyle and Andover), Oakgrove Park (Carlyle and Beech Daly), Westwood Park (Biltmore and Stollman), Meek School (Parkwood and Western).

For those children who participate in various activities at the playground site, free box lunches will be provided at Demby, King Park, Oakgrove, and Meek.

The city-wide bike rodeo, sponsored by the parks and recreation department, will be staged 1 p.m. Friday, July 8 at the Recreation Complex.

The bike rodeo, one of the most popular events the city stages according to recreation officials, offers children an opportunity to test their bike skills and agility. A contest bike and prize will be awarded.

The city also will be putting together boys' and girls' track teams to compete for regional honors. Participants must be 9 through 14 to try out for the team.

Qualifying meets will be conducted to find the talent for the city-wide team.

The Junior Olympic City Track Meet will be staged beginning at 10 a.m., July 12 at Westwood Park, while the Regional Hershey Track & Field Meet will be staged July 15 in Howell.

The Metro Youth Fitness Meet is scheduled for July 28 on Belle Isle.

A third wedge could improve game

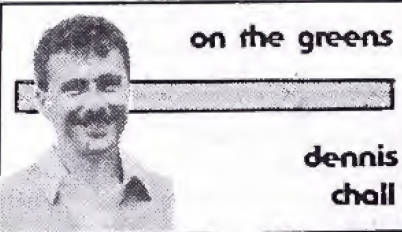

Many players are discovering the virtues of carrying three wedges for the many different circumstances faced around greens and in bunkers. Of course, there is a trade-off here, since the rules of golf allow a maximum of 14 clubs. Therefore, one must give careful thought to the set make-up.

If a third wedge is carried, usually an extra wood (five wood) or a long iron (1 or 2 iron) is sacrificed.

My current set make-up consists of a driver, 3-wood, two 9-irons, 49-degree pitching wedge, 56-degree sand wedge, a 60-degree sand-lob wedge and a putter. Thus, my extra wedge is the lob wedge.

If the course I'm about to play is extremely long and tight, I will carry a 1-iron and drop the 60-degree wedge.

One advantage of a 60-degree wedge is that it allows full shots to

on the greens

dennis chall

be hit up to approximately 65 yards, instead of attempting the dreaded "half-wedge shot." It is also effective in long grass and soft-sand bunkers.

If you opt for only one sand wedge, your best choice is probably a 56-degree model with medium bounce on the sole.

purchase of a third wedge:

- Make sure the wedge has adequate bounce on the sole so that it does not dig excessively.
- The loft of a third wedge should be between 58 and 62 degrees. This will help you swing freely to get the ball airborne quickly.

SPECIAL NEEDS, A SPECIAL LOVE

Caring is a huge part of the education program for teacher Bonnie Frank (above) and Amanda Hatfield, 4 of Westland. The special education program is sponsored by the Wayne-Westland Community Schools. ANP photo by Ann Grimes/staff photographer

he world is filled with heroes. And they are not only the war veterans who battled an enemy in conflict, but young people who battle a much larger enemy each day of their lives. Children born with mental or physical handicaps must face the challenges before them every day. They must cope with prejudice and unkindness in addition to the sometimes insurmountable tasks of day-to-day living.

There are approximately 35,000 young people in Wayne County schools who must struggle to attain what comes easily to most students. These young people are coached in 35 different centers located in 14 school districts throughout Wayne County.

Kathryn Mathey, of the Intermediate School District special education department, said providing appropriate services for each individual also seems an insurmountable task at times.

"There are so many types of special needs children, each with a different need," Mathey said.

The federal government requires each county to provide "free and appropriate education" to the handicapped. State law requires that this type of education be provided from birth through the handicapped person's 26th birthday.

Because of the vast age group that must be accommodated, the intermediate school district divides center programs into specific age brackets and certain types of students.

Young people with "high incidence handicaps," as referred to by the intermediate school district, are sometimes accommodated in regular schools, going to special rooms for more intense training.

Some of the disorders which fall into this classification include: young people who are simply slow learners, those young people who are dyslexic or hyper-active, young people whose learning is interrupted by emotional disorders and the speech and language impaired.

All 34 districts in the county provide services to young people afflicted with these disorders, Mathey said. More than half of all impaired students, fall into this category.

Less common impairments often require more specific training and thus programs are offered in centers set up throughout 14 of the 34 school districts in the county.

The less common disorders include: autistic young people, those who will never master academics but can be trained to do a job, those who are severely mentally impaired who can only be taught the very basic tasks of life, those who are severely impaired mentally and also have a physical handicap, the hearing and visually impaired and those who, because of a physical impairment, are unable to learn.

Mathey said centers providing services for these types of young people are scattered throughout the county and information is available through the local district offices.

While there is no choice sometimes, but to separate the handicapped from other students, there are efforts being made to mainstream handicapped youth.

"Michigan is probably the most progressive in the country in the area of mainstreaming," Mathey said. She said Wayne-Westland Community Schools are especially active in these types of programs.

"Every attempt is made to integrate students," Mathey said. "Nowadays you can walk into a high school and see kids in wheelchairs zipping down the halls."

Bev Brooks, director of pre-school services for Wayne-Westland Community Schools, said integrating students is foremost in her mind. At Wilson School in Westland, pre-school children, both handicapped and not, attend class together and play together on the playground every day.

Brooks said by exposing all children to those who are handicapped, prejudices against the handicap might slowly disappear.

Mathey said although these are the ideal situations, it is sometimes very difficult to integrate mentally impaired students with a regular class.

All families in Wayne County are eligible for the services provided to mentally and physically handicapped. A phone call to school district offices and an evaluation of the youngster is usually all that's needed, Mathey said.

"Now we might even get calls from the hospitals referring newborn children," Mathey said. "They are learning that qualities can be maximized if the child is caught early on."

It is also important to look into programs offered by the community, according to Brooks.

Mathey said the school system is constantly being confronted with new challenges in the area of special education. The biggest one at this point is keeping up with miracles of medical science.

"With the miracles of medicine, we are now having to deal with medically fragile children," she said. "As medicine progresses, it becomes the responsibility of public education to keep up."

Mathey referred to premature infants or accident victims who never would have survived years ago. Now they are kept alive and the educational system is responsible for making them capable to live in society.

Those surviving traumatic brain injury pose an interesting challenge for schools because the person knows he was able to learn these things before and yet he has to start all over again. Mathey said educational experts are studying methods for bringing these victims through the recovery process.

Mathey said services in the special needs area are constantly being updated and improved. She said if there isn't a service that suits a child's needs, special programs can be worked out and tested.

Teaching the handicapped and mentally impaired, Mathey said, is not cut and dry. It is a never-ending experiment.

Learning how to cope with needs

"There are two lasting bequests we can give our children. The first is roots and the other is wings."

This is the motto Bev Brooks lives by. Brooks is the director of special education services for Wayne-Westland Community Schools and she is the mother of a handicapped son.

She said the motto holds true for all children, but handicapped children in particular. She asks parents of special education children to keep it in mind.

As a person who confronts the problems of handicapped youth every day, in her own life and at work, Brooks seemed the ideal person to offer advice to parents of handicapped children.

While every situation is different and no handicap is really the same, there are some general ideas parents should keep in mind when they find out their newborn baby is not like all of the other kids on the playground, Brooks explained.

• There is a support system out there. Parents of handicapped children should know that they are only a phone call away from a whole network of support groups for themselves and their child.

"As they work through the feelings of loss and desperation, they should know that there is a support system out there as part of the educational system," Brooks said. That system will cater to the educational and emotional needs of the family before the child even reaches his first birthday.

Brooks said parents, as the child's first teacher, are crucial to the pre-school program for special education youngsters. Parents therefore become an important part of the process.

• Check out your child's condition to determine eligibility in the school program. Nearly every case of mental, physical and emotional disorder is incorporated in the state guidelines for special education.

All of these programs are free and should be investigated right away. The sooner the child is enrolled, Brooks said, the sooner an individual educational plan can be devised for that particular student.

Enjoying Good Health
 Dr. Stone is a radiologist on the Oakwood Hospital Medical Staff, assistant director of the Radiology Residency Program, and co-director of the Mammography section.

MAMMOGRAPHY—AN EXCELLENT TOOL IN THE DETECTION OF BREAST CANCER
 By Allen J. Stone, M.D.
 There is strong evidence that early diagnosis and treatment increase the chances for a complete cure of breast cancer. If the tumor is detected at an early stage, the chances of performing a breast preserving operation is greater. Mammography (breast X-ray) is excellent as a screening tool because it can detect a small breast cancer before it is felt by the patient or the doctor.

HOW IS MAMMOGRAPHY PERFORMED?
 The equipment is comprised of a compression device which flattens and spreads the breast tissue to produce a very high quality image. This compression has enabled us to detect very small tumors because the normal glandular tissue and fat is easily spread making it easier to observe the tumor.

IS RADIATION EXPOSURE DANGEROUS?
 The concern of radiation exposure to the breast from mammography has frightened many women. To put your mind at ease, there has been a great reduction in the exposure of the breast to mammography and it is now 1/20th of what it was. With the new "dedicated mammography" equipment, radiation exposure is very low. It has been compared to the risk of being age 60 for five minutes, smoking three-fourths of a cigarette, or traveling 400 miles in an airplane.

AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY RECOMMENDS
 In order to accomplish early detection, a triple-pronged attack is necessary. The American Cancer Society recommends that women perform a breast self examination monthly from the time they turn 20 years of age. A physician's exam is recommended every three years from the age of 20 to 35; after this, yearly physical exams should be performed. Finally, a baseline mammograph should be performed at age 35; from ages 40 to 50, a mammogram should be performed every one-to-two years. After age 50, when the risk of breast cancer greatly increases, a yearly mammogram is recommended.

Guess what? I'm in San Francisco and you're not.

Yep, here I am in the city by the bay, resting, relaxing and enjoying myself on a great vacation. I am having a great time, and don't miss one single thing about being back home. Well, maybe one thing. It is strawberry time and you can find all kinds of those delicious red fruits in the market while I have to suffer in all these fabulous, four-star restaurants being waited on hand and foot.

If I were there, however, I would be making wonderful treats with the strawberries. Really, I would. They are great, they remind us all that very soon we will have Michigan berries to pick and make into jams and jellies and they always convince me, somehow, that summer really will get here.

In honor of my trip and as a reward for staying home, I've found a couple of really great recipes. Enjoy, and I'll see you next week. I'll attempt to find some great recipes while I'm here and bring them back. I know, the research required will be a tough job, but somebody has to do it.

Strawberry pie

- 1 quart firm, ripe strawberries
- 1/3 cup water
- 3 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- 1 baked, 9-inch pie crust
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1 cup whipping cream, whipped into stiff peaks

Wash, drain and hull the berries. Reserve a cupful of whole berries and mash the remainder. Arrange the whole berries evenly and decoratively in pie crust. Add the water, sugar (previously blended with the cornstarch) salt and juice to the mashed berries.

Slowly bring to a boil over medium heat and boil gently for about two minutes, stirring constantly. Pour over the berries in the pie crust and chill until firm. Serve with whipped cream.

Ann's famous strawberry pie

- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup water
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1 small box strawberry-flavored Jello
- 2 pints of strawberries, washed, cleaned, hulled and sliced in half lengthwise
- 1 9-inch pie crust, baked

Mix the sugar and the cornstarch in a saucepan. Gradually add water. Cook over medium heat until thick and clear. Stir in Jello and allow to cool. Place berries in baked and cooled pie crust. Pour syrup over the berries. Refrigerate until firm and ready to slice. Serve with whipped cream.

Strawberry liqueur sauce

- 1 quart fresh strawberries, sliced
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 4 tablespoons orange-flavored liqueur

Combined sliced strawberries and sugar in a saucepan and heat until berries are just heated through. Remove from heat and stir in the liqueur. Place in a saucedish and pass separately with strawberry soufflé or other dessert. Makes 3 1/2 cups.

They're cooking to 'boost' the band

Band parents make cookbook a tasty fundraiser success

By RAY DAY
ANP Managing Editor

The old standby fundraising campaigns worked well in the past. But, this time, this group of devoted parents wanted something that would really sizzle . . . cook . . . and sparkle.

Little did they know that Someone's in the Kitchen with the Boosters — a 459-page cookbook packed with the tried-and-true recipes of area cooks — would be so popular that a second printing must be considered after only three weeks of sales.

Maybe it's page 150 that made the book such a hit. Val Wolf, one member of the Wayne Memorial High School Band and Orchestra Boosters Club, publishers of the cookbook, thinks so, since page 150 is where Linda Rohraff's U.P. caramel cake recipe can be found.

Perhaps, page 302 did it. It's there that one can find a recipe for Mexican tuna fish, submitted by Wayne Memorial exchange student Yadira Garate.

Then again, page 419 could have done the trick. That's where Joanne Mecklenburg's quick broccoli soup recipe can be found.

Or, maybe, it's the entire collection of about 700 recipes submitted by "neighbors" throughout the Wayne-Westland area — never retyped but published in the original penmanship — that caused the cookbook to be such a success.

The correct answer is "all of the above" when trying to determine the reasons for success of the newly released cookbook.

Dee Martin, another member of the booster club, was the impetus behind the book — and the workhorse. The concept of a community cookbook in which residents could submit their favorite recipes was developed by Martin, who saw a similar book from the Plymouth-Canton school district.

As members of the booster club tried to develop yet another fundraising campaign to support an about $6,000 annual club budget, Martin suggested the cookbook plan. Several members latched on to idea, an effort which was spearheaded by Martin, Wolf, the incoming booster president, and Angela Hewett, group secretary.

"The whole thing started about one and one-half years ago. It was supposed to have been done last summer, but the recipes just trickled in," Wolf explained. "But, then, everyone beat their friends, and we had an avalanche of recipes."

Those wishing to submit recipes were asked to type, write or pencil in their favorite dishes on a form given to them by booster members. The form was then to be returned to Martin, who sorted, grouped, indexed and hauled the completed cookbook to the school district media services department for printing.

"These recipes are not exotic. It's what a busy person really cooks," Martin explained. "And there really were only two recipes that were exactly the same. But we put those in, too, because if people took the time to write them out, we put them in the book."

"I probably have three shelves of cookbooks like this — from churches and these kinds of groups — because most of the recipes are tried-and-true. Most of these, you can count on," she continued. "That's why this book has been so easy to sell."

And easy it was. The printed cookbooks were returned from the printer just after Mother's Day. Five-hundred books were printed and distributed to booster members, sold at band functions and promoted by word-of-mouth throughout the community.

The book is divided into 15 sub-sections. These include: appetizers and dips; beverages; breads; breakfast; cakes; candies; cookies; desserts; main dishes-poultry and seafood; main dishes-beef and pork; pies; potpourri; salads; soups; and vegetables.

Currently, 375 books have been sold at a cost of $5 per copy. The response to the book has been so great, in fact, that booster members are considering a second printing this fall.

Although $5 may be a "steal" for such a large cookbook, booster members wanted the item to be reasonably priced and available to everyone, Martin said. The group nets $2 profit from each book sold, money which is added to the organizational coffers for several band-related expenses.

The boosters club is designed to aid the music department at Wayne Memorial with financial and motivating support. Members meet each month at the school. Membership is open to all parents of band members and anyone in the community interested in joining.

Each year, the booster club sends the band drum majors to a training camp at a cost of $150 per student, sponsors band scholarships, buys awards and pins for band members and purchases sheet music and other supplies for the music department at the school.

In addition, for the last two years, Wayne Memorial booster members have joined their counterparts at John Glenn High School, in Westland, in a "Band Aid" effort to collect $100,000 for the purchase of 900 new uniforms for the band and orchestras at both schools. The new uniforms have already been purchased and are in use by the students. However, about $50,000 of the bill still must be generated and paid.

Nevertheless, the project at hand is the cookbook and sale of the remaining 125 books, Martin said. The books can be ordered by telephone by calling Angela Hewett at 722-6284 or Val Wolf at 722-0467.

And just in case you're wondering whether the $5 investment is worthwhile, here are a few recipes to tease your taste buds.

Grandma Wolf's kitchen sausage

- 5 pounds hamburger
- 5 tablespoons Morton Tender-Quick salt
- 1 teaspoon hickory-smoked salt
- 2 1/2 teaspoons garlic salt
- 2 1/2 teaspoons mustard seed
- 2 teaspoons pepper

Mix and store in refrigerator in freezer bags. Knead (in freezer bag) for 3 consecutive days. On the fourth day, roll in 3 loaves 2 1/2-by-6. Bake at 170 degrees for 10 hours.

Freeze in tinfoil.

Keen, peachy slush

- 1/4 cup sugar
- 2 cups water
- 12-ounce can frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed
- 12-ounce can frozen lemonade concentrate, thawed
- 3 cups water
- 2 1/2 cups peach-flavored Schnapps
- 1/3 cup lemon juice
- 2 (28 ounces) bottles (7 cups) ginger ale

In medium saucepan, boil sugar and 2 cups water for 3 minutes. Cool. In large, nonmetal container, combine sugar mixture, concentrates, 3 cups water, Schnapps and lemon juice. Cover. Freeze.

Before serving, let stand at room temperature for 15 minutes to thaw slightly. Stir occasionally. Spoon 1/2 cup slush mixture into each serving glass. Stir in 1/4 cup ginger ale. Makes 22 3/4-cup servings.

Gingerbread muffins

- 2 cups flour
- 1 1/4 cups sugar
- 1 tablespoon cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon ginger
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 teaspoon butter/margarine
- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup milk (soured with 1 1/2 teaspoons vinegar)
- 1 teaspoon baking soda

Sift together first six ingredients. Cut in shortening or melt and add with egg and milk mixture. Spoon into cupcake liners or greased muffin pans. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Makes 14 to 18 muffins.

U.P. caramel cake

- 1 package German chocolate cake
- 1 can Eagle brand sweetened milk
- 39 caramels (good ones!)
- 1 average-size container cool whip (frozen)
- 1 package butterscotch pudding
- 1/4 cup milk

Prepare cake mix as directed. Pour half of cake mixture into 9-by-12-inch cake pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes. Allow to cool.

In pan, melt caramels in sweetened milk over low heat. Pour over cake.

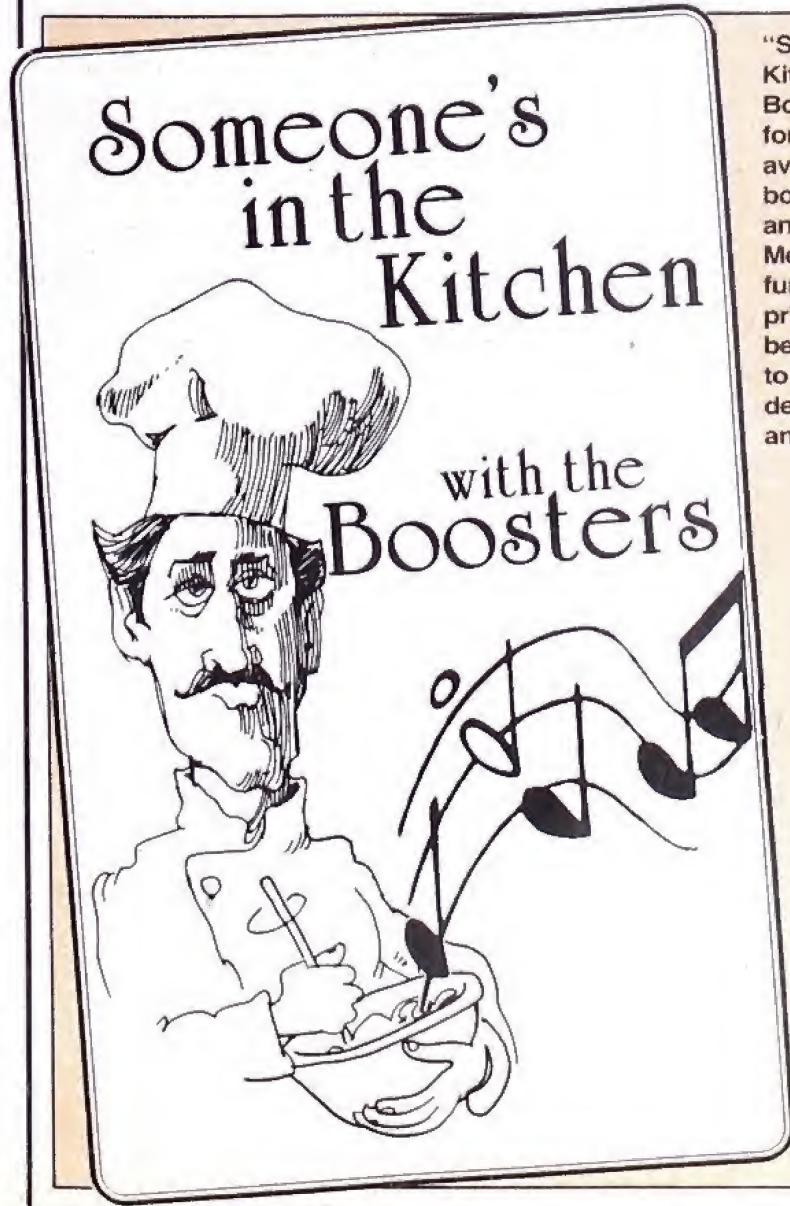

Spread the remaining cake mixtures over the caramel mixture. Finish baking cake until done. Cool.

Mix pudding mix in 1/4 cup milk and then blend in thawed cool whip. Frost the cake with this mixture.

Cake must be kept refrigerated.

A new Hope

Westland family learns to deal with daughter's needs

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

The Long family, of Westland, expected a healthy baby. But they got Angie instead.

While every couple expecting a new baby fervently hopes for a healthy child, occasionally Mother Nature makes a mistake and the arrival of a less-than-perfect child can be painful.

The Longs received the news from a doctor who blurted out that their infant daughter had Down's Syndrome. He recommended that the baby be institutionalized.

"This (Down's Syndrome) was not something she chose or anything we chose," said Angie's father, Jeff. "It wasn't fair to punish her for something like that, we were going to take her home."

Jeff and Linda Long had already selected the name for their second daughter before she was born. Angela Hope took on new meaning for the Longs who had to become instant experts on mentally impaired children.

There were no signs that Linda would deliver a Down's Syndrome child. Older women often face a greater risk of delivering such a child, but Linda did not fall into the category. There was no indication of the condition in the family at all.

Down's Syndrome is labeled as a congenital mental and physical retardation caused by an extra chromosome. The condition, also called Mongolism, is characterized by a flat nose and wrinkled skin. The wrinkled skin is what caught the doctor's attention first.

Down's Syndrome babies are often plagued with heart ailments and more serious physical defects, but the Longs were lucky on that score. Angie showed no signs of serious health problems.

Later she would develop some upper respiratory problems caused by her tongue being too large for her mouth, but the Longs sought a solution to that disability.

Watching television one night, the family happened upon a program featuring an Australian surgeon who developed a procedure for reducing the size of the tongue.

The Longs approached surgeons at Childrens Hospital where the procedure had never been tried and six months later, Angie's problem was corrected. Now that her tongue was the right size for her mouth, she could sleep with her mouth closed and avoid the many infections that had been creeping into her tiny frame.

"We never try to fool ourselves into thinking she is normal," Jeff said. "But anything we can do to minimize her Down's Syndromeness and maximize her personness we'll do."

Angie is now 6 years old and with her glasses and long hair she appears almost like any other child. She is small for her size and when she speaks the words are muddled. Other than that she plays and laughs just like any other 6-year-old.

She has made her place in the Long family, with a big smile and warm hugs for her parents and for her almost 8-year-old sister, Mandy Faith.

Linda said Mandy is a great inspiration because she has never developed the stereotypes that most kids do about retarded and handicapped children. Because she has grown up with Angie, she has learned to accept everyone as they are.

"She is great," Linda explained. "She goes with her sister to swim classes and things and she will go right up to the other kids and jump on the laps of people in wheelchairs."

Members of the Long family, of Westland, had expected a healthy baby. They received Angela Hope, a name that has been appropriate in their never-ending struggle to adapt to the needs of the new family member. ANP photo by Barbara Albert

Mandy, her mother said, also serves as a model for her younger sister.

Three months after Angie's birth, the Longs became part of the Early Intervention Program in the Wayne-Westland School District. It seemed silly at the time, because Angie was so young, but before long they learned the purpose of the program.

"It was more of a support group for us," Jeff said. "Often times you think you're the only one who has certain feelings, but you find out you aren't."

Early on, the Longs believed that if Angie were to face death, it might be better earlier. Through Early Intervention they learned that most parents felt the same way.

Angie promises to have a long life ahead of her, however, and the objective is to make her as productive an individual as possible.

She receives intensive speech training and attends the pre-school program at the Wilson Special Projects Center. Linda said the program has been great for them and for Angie.

"I thought I was the only one who could ever really love her, but they really love her," Linda said. "I haven't experienced that with many of my friends even."

Next year, the Longs hope to enroll Angie in a program at Wildwood School in Westland. Linda hopes to arrange a program which includes a half day of regular kindergarten and a half day with special needs children.

They strive to bring Angie to the point where some day she can live independently.

Needs

• Parents of handicapped children must be prepared for stress.

"The situation creates a lot of unique stressors that impact on the mother, father, siblings, grandparents and neighbors," Brooks said. Support groups will help the family get through these, but families must be prepared to accept the medical and emotional problems that might develop.

• Expect to go through feelings of loss. Brooks said parents who are told their infant is handicapped will feel they have had a great loss and that is to be expected.

Brooks also said that 98 percent of these parents go through a period of time when they think it might have been better if the child had died.

These feelings are normal and experienced by nearly every parent of handicapped children.

• Allow others to get to know your child and take the time to teach them about handicapped children and how you cope.

Brooks said most prejudice stems from lack of understanding and by answering questions from inquisitive friends, even if they seem rude, might help lessen the prejudices.

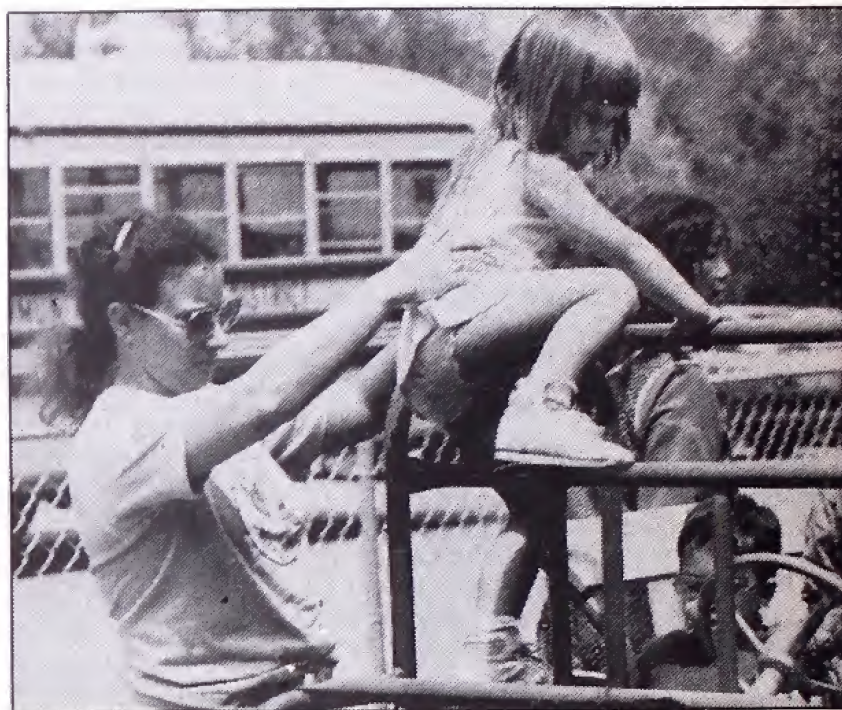

"We must allow others to get to know our kids to build mutual understanding, respect and understanding rather than prejudice," Brooks said.

• Look into community resources. The school system offers wonderful programs, but it is important for handicapped children to be exposed to different types of things.

Library schools, reading times, regular pre-schools and Bible schools will help widen your child's scope of experience and also teach others the value of handicapped youth.

It is important, Brooks said, to accept your handicapped child as a person first and by following some of this advice parents would be well on their way to doing just that.

As a parent of a handicapped child, Brooks knows the frustration and desperation that comes as a result of raising a handicapped child. She knows that it is difficult to expose your child to a cruel world, but she also realizes that this cruel world will not change until more people understand and get to know handicapped people.

One service proving to be a major source of assistance to special needs family is the Wilson special education program, a part of the Wayne-Westland Community Schools. Oakwood Vs. Cancer

Eat, drink and exercise your way to health and decreased cancer risk.

In just 90 minutes, you can learn more about yourself and how to take control of your health—and your future. Simply attend "Taking Control," an American Cancer Society educational program sponsored by Oakwood Hospital. It's an intensive session that introduces you to the foods, activities and habits that are known to reduce the risk of cancer. You'll learn specific foods to avoid, as well as foods that enhance health.

And we will outline specific ways to achieve a healthier lifestyle. Exercise, alcohol, smoking, even getting a better tan are discussed in a new and enlightened manner. Do yourself a favor. Call 278-5151 to register for this free presentation on "Taking Control."

Another good idea in the fight against cancer: regular checkups with your physician. Early detection results in more effective and less radical treatment of most forms of cancer. Oakwood's oncology capabilities include state-of-the-art diagnostic tools—CT Scan, nuclear medicine, mammography, ultrasound, laboratory test, chemical analysis and microscopic exams. If treatment is required, we offer advanced surgery, radiation therapy and chemotherapy.

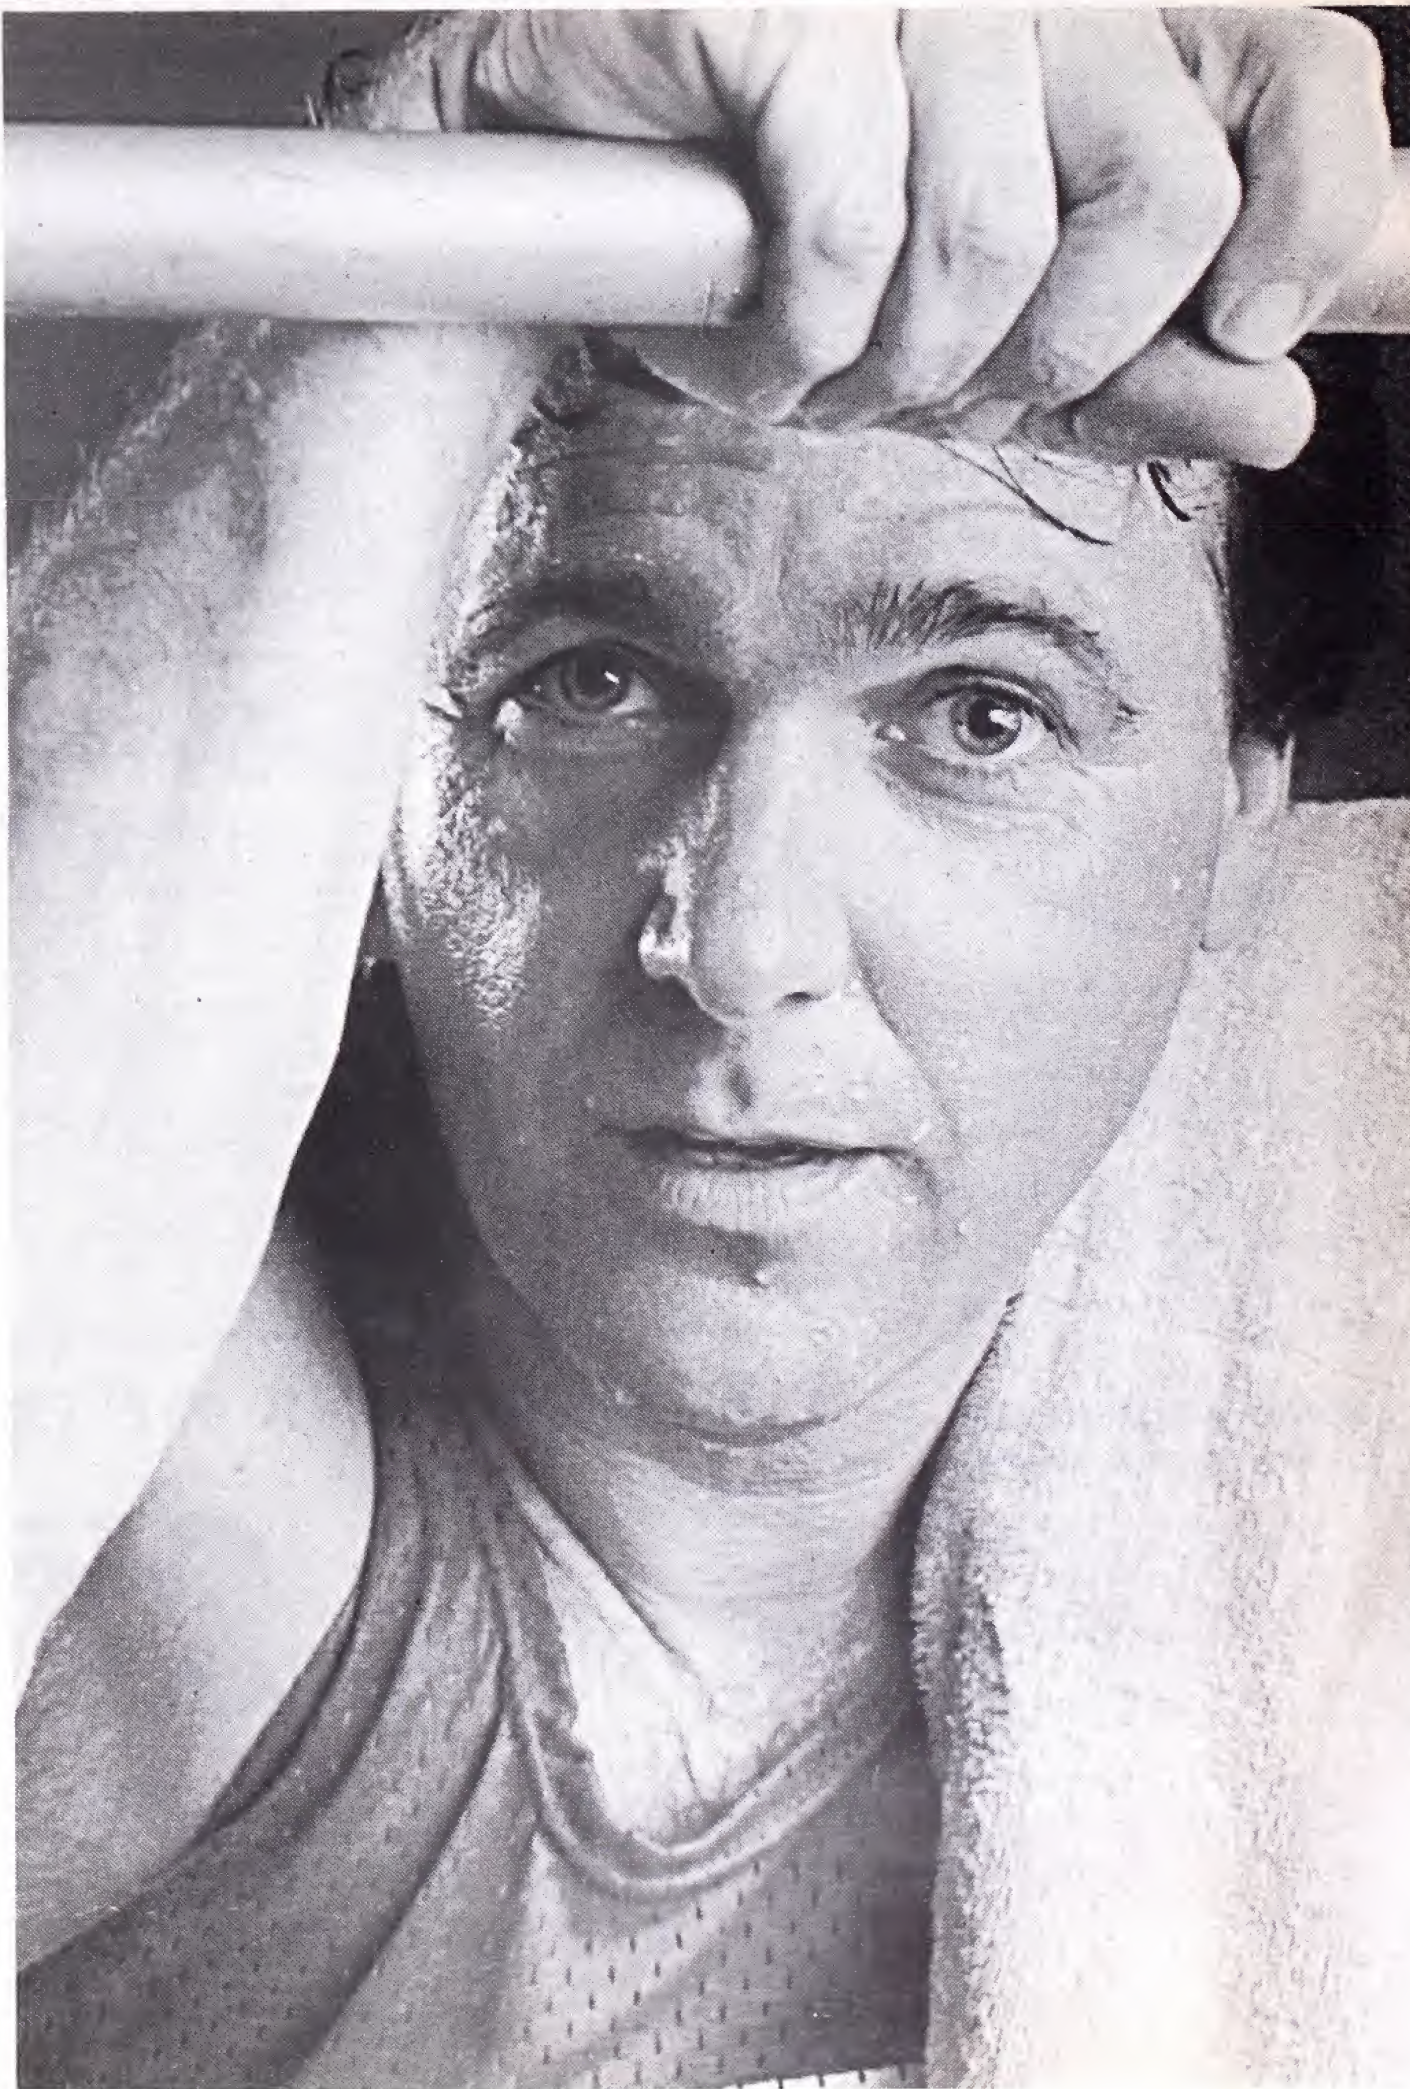

But we hope you can avoid our treatment services entirely, by taking control of your life. Call the Department of Community Health at 278-5151 to register for a summer "Taking Control" class. It will do your body good.

BUSINESS DIGEST

Detroit jobless rate declines

The Detroit metropolitan area unemployment rate declined by five-tenths of a percentage point, as the jobless rate fell from 8.8 percent in February to 8.3 percent in March. The rate decrease represents 11,000 fewer individuals out of work. Total residents seeking unemployment dropped to 178,000.

The decline in joblessness was primarily a result of unemployed individuals leaving the labor force, according to the Detroit Labor Market Review.

Total employment in March remained unchanged at 1,963,000. In addition, the civilian labor force fell to 2,141,000, a loss of 11,000.

Westland nets new business

Eric Yale Lutz and Associates have expanded the Fort Knox Self-Storage facility in Westland. The new building, one-half mile east of I-275, is a self-storage facility with 550 units available for usage.

Storage spaces range in size from 5 feet by 5 feet to 12 feet by 30 feet. Units rent from $30 to $150 per month, depending on the size of the storage area.

The first Fort Knox Self-Storage facility opened in September 1987, in Ann Arbor. A third facility is planned for Waterford and is scheduled to open in the spring.

Subway opens in Westland

A new subway opened on Memorial Day on South Wayne Road, in Westland. But it's not a new form of transportation.

Subway Sandwiches and Salads, ranked the number one franchise by Entrepreneur Magazine, opened for business at the location. Subway currently has more than 2,100 units in 45 states. Franchise officials said they have plans to have at least 5,000 units by 1994.

In celebration of the new store, Subway officials are releasing 20,000 $1 off coupons to be redeemed at area Subway restaurants.

John Rogin Buick nets service award

John Rogin Buick, Wayne, was recently honored as a top Buick auto dealership in the nation, according to owner John Rogin.

The award, a "Pacesetter," was issued to only three Buick dealers in Michigan, including Rogin Buick.

"This was the ultimate award for Buick dealers. The two criteria for the award were sales volume and the ability to satisfy our customers and to make them happy with the product and in all facets of the business," Rogin said. "We are very proud of this award. It's really a reflection on the community at-large."

Of more than 3,800 Buick dealers in the nation, Rogin said, his dealership was chosen for the award. This is the second year the award has been issued to dealers. Rogin said he was notified of the award and flown to Arizona to accept it.

"It was more than just a handshake and a plaque in the mail. It was for three days, and it was just fantastic. It was a real shock to us to get this award. It's really an exclusive award," Rogin said.

Nonstop flights begin at Northwest Airlines

Northwest Airlines will begin nonstop air service June 11 from Detroit to both Portland, Ore., and Birmingham, Ala. The new nonstop destinations are part of a schedule enhancement, including more nonstop flights from Detroit to Albany, N.Y., Milwaukee, Minneapolis/St. Paul, Montreal, San Francisco and Seattle/Tacoma, according to Rodney Johnson, district sales manager of the airline.

With the new service, the airline will offer 229 daily flights from Detroit Metropolitan Airport, serving 62 nonstop destinations.

From staff reports

Bottom line: Business is now part of life

By RAY DAY
ANP Managing Editor

It used to be that the "average Joe" never needed to peak at the pages of stock tables in his daily newspaper — unless he needed a new lining for his bird cage or had a large-scale paper mache project at hand.

Those were the days. Financial planning meant learning to balance the checkbook and the "interest bearing, daily compounded" pass-book savings account. Retirement? Uncle Sam had that taken care of with his Social Security system.

And CDs? Those letters signaled trouble, as they generally meant Junior had been a goofing off at school this term and this was "report card day."

What used to be isn't anymore, however, as CDs, securities, IRAs and personal financial planning become household words and "the bottom line" becomes king, according to one local financial planner.

Bob Beeny is the owner of Financial Planning Services, in Wayne. A former supervisor in a Downriver-based chemical production plant, Beeny himself was the victim of the societal trend toward business awareness. In 1980 and at age 33, he was forced to find a new career path after a plant shutdown.

"They shut down the plant and asked me to move to Louisiana. I had to switch careers," Beeny explained. "I became involved with a gentleman who was in the financial business — and that's where I started."

No longer can "the average American" be oblivious to the business world, Beeny said. A keen financial awareness can touch the consumer at almost any level — from planning for retirement and a child's college education to learning to ride the stock market rollercoaster and experiencing the profitable ups and disastrous downs that go with it.

"The majority of my clients are just middle-class working people that are really first-time investors. They are people who are sitting down and deciding that 'we need to get a little more organized,'" Beeny explained. "A lot of them are people who have parents who are retired. They see that their parents have had to make drastic changes in lifestyles after retirement, and now they are worried about their own future."

Retirement and education are the two most common reasons a member of the middle class seeks financial planning and advice, Beeny said. Of about 300 clients at Financial Planning Services, most are in their 30s and 40s, have school-age children and have a "comfortable" retirement on their minds.

"(The business world) is more visible today. It's a news item now," Beeny said. "Every day, they show the numbers, we have a financial news network on cable, and we have PBS shows like 'Wall Street Week.'"

"I think what we are seeing is a result of what happened in the late '70s and early '80s. We went through this last recession, and a lot of people really had to become more aware of what is happening financially," he continued. "It's just more a part of the fabric of everyday life now."

Admittedly, however, not everyone has become financially literate. For most, CDs are still the new high-tech devices for playing those shiny, small records. And Mutual funds?

That's the "what's yours is mine and what's mine is mine" budgeting understanding in many marriages.

But not to fear, Beeny said, as personal financial awareness doesn't mean the "average Joe" needs to be able to assume a spot on the floor of a New York stock market and barter with the pros.

"Financial planning is an information and service profession. Our concern is to teach you how to create a road map for your future financial well-being," Beeny said. "What I try to do is sit down and determine goals. Then, I educate people and make them feel comfortable about making financial decisions."

Among the decisions all consumers must make are those concerning life and health insurance and a savings plan for the future. Each financial plan developed is different because each client has different needs, Beeny said.

However, a few common threads are weaved into each plan. One bit of financial advice Beeny always stresses is an emergency fund.

It's usually something that is fairly liquid-like a checking account or savings account," Beeny said. "This is a reserve in case of an emergency."

To start, $1,500 makes a healthy emergency fund, Beeny said. The money can be used for those unexpected house-hold disasters or medical bills.

With the groundwork in place—such as the emergency fund, insurances, determining what employment and personal

TERMS TO KNOW

The following is a beginner's primer on the financial world:

■ BEAR MARKET — A period of generally declining stock prices.

■ BLUE CHIP STOCK — Stock in a company known for a long-established record of making money and paying dividends.

■ BULL MARKET — A period of generally increasing market prices.

■ CASH RESERVES — Money set aside for immediate needs or for emergency use.

■ CD — (Certificates of deposit) A bank certificate acknowledging the receipt of a specified large sum of money in a special kind of time deposit, drawing interest and requiring written notice for withdrawal.

■ COMMON STOCK — An ownership interest in a corporation. If other classes of stock are outstanding, the holders of common stock are the last to receive dividends and payments, while those holding preferred stock are issued a fixed dividend.

■ DISCOUNT RATE — Rate of interest charged by the Federal Reserve on loans to member banks.

■ DIVIDEND — Describes the payment per share a corporation distributes to stockholders as return on money these invested.

■ DOW JONES & CO. — Company which publishes the Wall Street Journal and operates Dow Jones News Service. It provided the Dow Jones industrial average for an indicator of how the market is doing.

■ FIXED ASSET — Money set aside or invested at fixed rates of return, usually for specific lengths of time and for a specific purpose.

■ MUTUAL FUND — Investor purchases shares of stock market fund. Fund administrator invests in diversified portfolio of securities.

■ PRIME RATE — Interest rate that commercial banks charge on loans to borrowers with the best credit ratings.

■ SECURITIES — Refers to stock certificates and bonds.

Video venture Inkster resident hopes to put his market on videotape

By TERRY JACOBY
ANP Staff Writer

Dave Goerke and Tim Maloney have found a need and they intend to fill it.

"We fill the gap between the big production houses and the small groups that just focus on weddings and small time productions," said Goerke, who along with Maloney, owns Ridgemont Enterprises, a video production service in Inkster.

"I guess we are the in-between service. I don't know of another company that offers what we do. We did start out doing consumer-oriented projects but we took a step up the ladder."

The company, which currently has five part-time employees on staff, is involved in a number of different video production work including sales training tapes, point-of-purchase tapes and legal depositions.

"We are here for a small business that wants a good product but doesn't have a big budget," said Goerke, who does a lot of the editing work in his Inkster basement.

"The original objective of the company was to do home documentaries for insurance companies. I did that on my own for about a year and a half, until I met Tim and we decided to expand into other areas."

Maloney had more experience in the video business, and the two decided to increase the functions of the company.

"Our biggest business now is our sales training tapes," said Goerke. "We still do the small productions like weddings, graduations, ice skating shows and recitals. And we do a lot of employee training tapes, but our sales tapes have kept us busy."

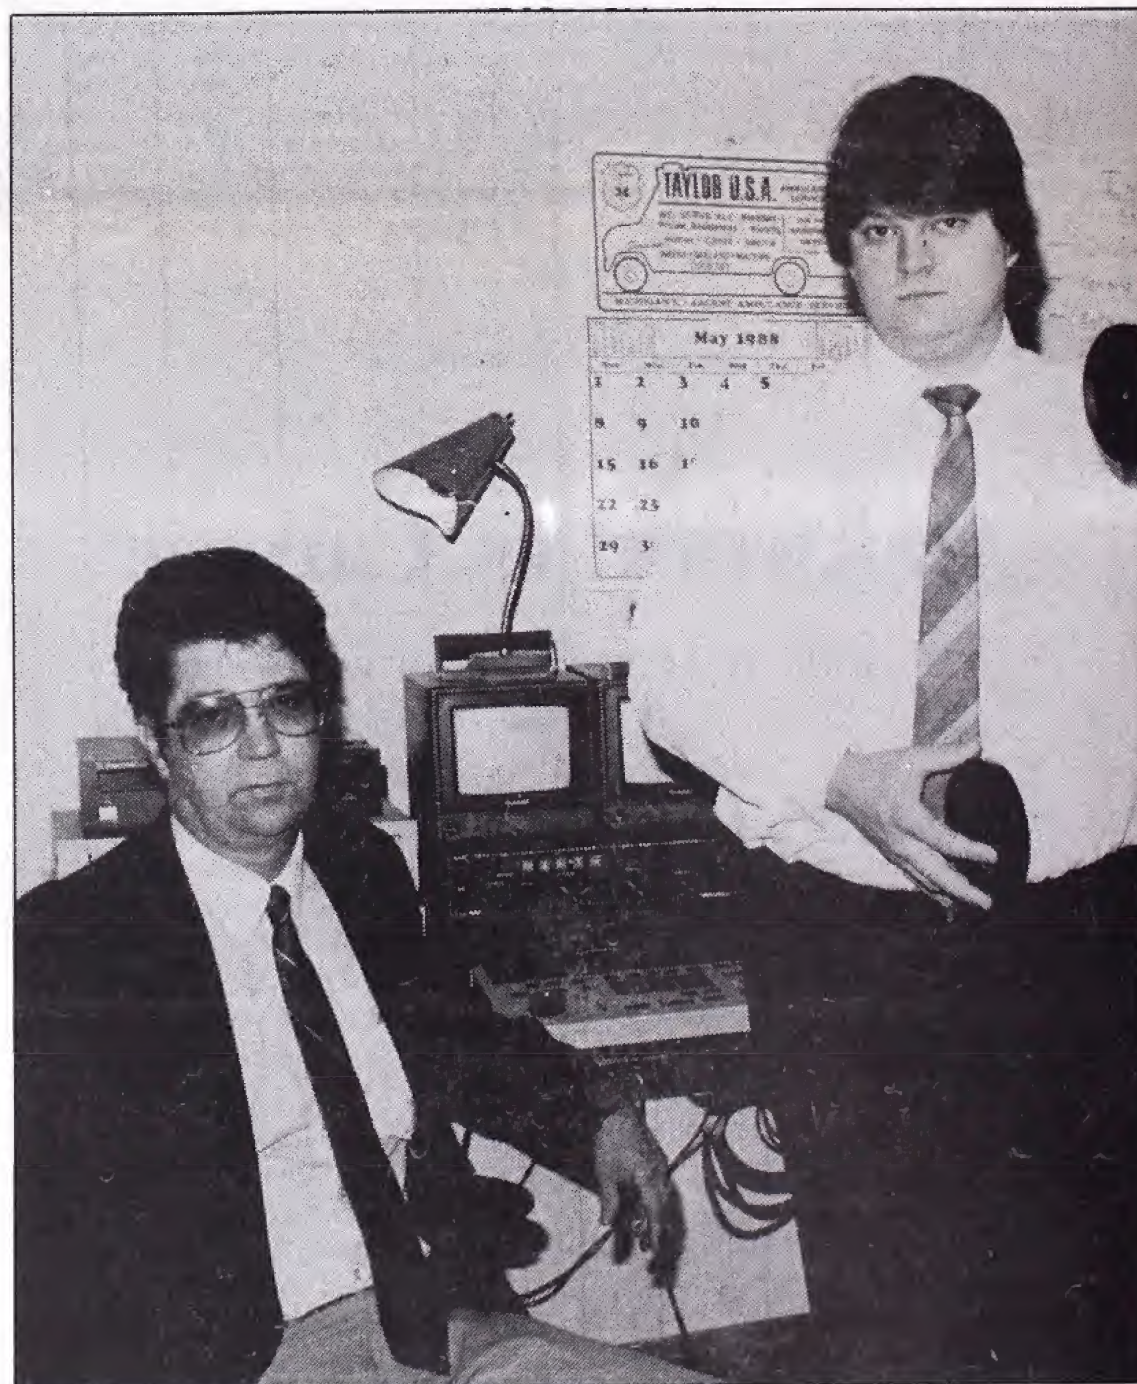

The company recently did sales tapes for National Bank of Detroit and Annapolis Hospital.

"They (NBD) were making a push for instant loans and we did a training film for bank managers on how to full out a loan," said Goerke. "We are also going to be doing a tape on closing a loan."

The Annapolis Hospital tape dealt with how to handle an emergency situation.

"The government staged a drill at Willow Run Airport on setting up a mobile hospital unit in case of an emergency," said Goerke, who is pleased with the early success his company has encountered.

"We are still trying to build a clientele but the only way we can do it is through word of mouth and referrals," he said. "It has been pretty successful but it is also a lot of hard work for both of us."

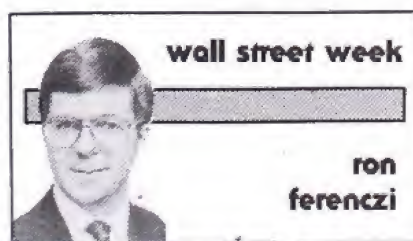

Hollywood may be 2,000 miles away, but someone forgot to tell Dave Goerke (left) and Tim Maloney. The two have launched Ridgemont Enterprises, a video production business which they operate out of a basement. ANP photo by Ann Grimes/staff photographer

Leading banks are poised to increase prime rate

To the greatest extent possible, the Federal Reserve Board has convinced the financial markets that interest rates are coming down, while yields are increasing. It appears that the enthusiasm for interest-selling issues last week is a good "marketing strategy" for large holders to reduce inventories. Nothing had really changed.

Bank prime-lending rates are still poised to move higher, and the Fed has no intention of lowering the discount rate. By the end of the session last week, it became apparent that there was little reason for all of the enthusiasm.

This week, yields will trend higher, as buyers move to unload bond holdings. Gold and silver prices will move higher, as fear of inflation creeps into the market.

The short-term traders this week will be confused by early market activity. A major sell-off in the bond market may cause selling pressure in equities. However, early market momentum should be adequate to allow traders to absorb the selling pressure.

Intermediate-term traders are satisfied with sitting on the sidelines. Long-term traders may be the strength of this session. They will move into the market on the buy-side late in the session.

This week, I expect the market to open mixed, as selling pressure becomes apparent. The realization that nothing positive had happened in the bond market last week will shape weak holders out of the market. Traders will add some stability to the market by moving to the buy-side. The market may trade in a narrow range for most of this session but improve as the session ends.

INVESTMENT SPECIAL: While you local banks can offer you certificates of deposit (CDs), brokerage firms can usually offer you similar CDs insured up to $100,000 by the FDIC or FSLIC — but at rates sometimes 1/2 percent higher or more than your local bank. Call your local stock brokerage firm for the most current rates, as these rates change on a daily basis.

NOTE: Many retailers are cutting back on fall and winter merchandise orders. Factory orders climbed 1.2 percent in April, while leading indicators were up .2 percent. The Fed is trying to avoid increasing the discount rate because of concern about jolting the still jittery financial markets.

Special employees

Three employees at Annapolis Hospital, in Wayne, were honored last month for special contributions to the hospital. Rosie Molton, supervisor in housekeeping, was chosen as Employee of the Year. The 30-year veteran of the hospital staff was presented with flowers, pearls and an award. Molton (above, on right) showed her presents to daughter, Johnetta Crofton, a registered nurse in the surgery-medical unit at the hospital. Also, June Williams (left, on right) and Betty Starks were named "Nurses of the Year." Williams is a registered nurse and assistant director of nursing-afternoon shift. financing the consumer has at hand and goals and financial objectives for the future — clients can proceed to saving money and even taking a few risks. However, this same client must be realistic and not have the idea that mere participation in the stock market makes millionaires overnight, Beeny said.

"My clients aren't going to become rich through investing. Most are just looking for some kind of a plan to put money away," Beeny said. "What they are looking for is putting away enough money over a period of time that will allow them to have a comfortable retirement or put their kids through college."

In the same manner, these clients do not have to be rich to begin investing, either, Beeny said.

"You should have your emergency fund in place before you start investing. But, then, you could start with as low an initial investment as $100 and put in as little as $25 a month. There is basically nobody that is precluded from putting money in some sort of program," Beeny said.

And for the future?

"The average person cannot avoid financial awareness anymore. I have never planned on collecting a lot of Social Security in my old age, and I'm not sure (Social Security) will even be there. I'm going to need more money."

"People are going to have to understand the financial world in this day and age. There is no sense of getting into the market if you are going to lay awake at night worrying about it," Beeny said. "Thus, the more you know about it, the more comfortable you will be investing in it."

Excellence is honored

A customer satisfaction award from the Ford Motor Co. prompted Jack Demmer, owner of Jack Demmer Ford, in Wayne, and son Jim to play host to employees during a dinner and presentation ceremony May 26. The ceremony, staged at Fellows Creek Golf and Country Club, in Canton Township, was to honor the dealership employees, who made possible a number-one rating of the dealership by Ford Motor Co. officials. "This award is yours, people. You are the ones that our customers are saying thanks to — for your dedicated service," Jack Demmer told the employees present. "This is teamwork at its best, and I'm proud of each and every one of you." Demmer (center) and son Jim (right) were presented with the award by Howrad Revier (left), district sales manager for Ford.
